GREAT VICTORY WON FOR GRAND TRUNK

RICHESON BARBERED FOR THE DEATH CELL

GRANITE STATE CHEERS CLARK

FEW HOURS MORE AND RICHESON MAY BE ON WAY TO CHARLESTOWN

FIFTH EDITION

BOSTON AMERICAN

VOL. 9—No. 55. BOSTON, TUESDAY, MAY 14, 1912. Registered in U. S. Patent Office. PRICE ONE CENT.

Preparations had been completed at noon today to remove Clarence V. T. Richeson in the next few hours to the Charlestown Prison and place him in the death cell.

Much activity was manifested both at the Charles Street Jail and at the State House. It was known Richeson would not be removed unless word was given to do so by Governor Foss. Richeson was told today to get ready for the trip. It was a blow to him. He had pleaded to be permitted to remain at the jail until his fate was settled.

Many persons about the State House, the courts and other places where the Richeson case was discussed today, saw in this movement the dwindling of hope for Richeson. The prisoner, himself, must have looked on the action of the authorities in the same light.

GATHERS BELONGINGS FOR MOVE.

Richeson was shaved today by the Charles street jail barber. After that he dressed himself carefully. He gathered up his little belongings in his cell, dividing them with Harry Butts, his negro companion.

The condemned man was nervous, white faced, almost ready to collapse. The preparations for the breaking of their strange companionship and friendship were attended with many pathetic incidents.

Butts tried to cheer up Richeson. The negro held out hope the Council would either reprieve the prisoner or commute his sentence. But with all his efforts Butts could not infuse any spirit of optimism into the other prisoner.

Dudley M. Holman, secretary to Governor Foss, today denied that the Governor had given out a statement last night to the effect that Dr. Briggs had reported Richeson to be "accountable."

"Irresponsible" at Times.

"Governor Foss did not refer directly or indirectly to the contents of Dr. Briggs' report," added Secretary Holman. "The findings of the mental experts are sacred for the time being."

A report from an authoritative source today was to the effect that Dr. I. Vernon Briggs did not go so far in his conclusions concerning Richeson as to pronounce him insane to a legal sense of the term, but that he did pronounce him "irresponsible" at times.

Dr. Briggs is said to have characterized Richeson as a "hysterical lunatic" during certain periods. He reports that he found him afflicted with degenerate tendencies that had prevailed for years, developing the highly nervous state and spasmodic waves of irresponsibility.

The report of Dr. Briggs is minute and lengthy. It is couched in the extremely technical verbiage of the studious medical expert and absolutely bolsted with qualifying clauses.

But its final deductions are said to be sufficiently open in their nature to permit of legal interpretations either way. For example, the "irresponsibility" leaves broad doubt and scope as to the degree of the subject's alleged irresponsibility during his attacks which months ago were described not only by Mr. and Mrs. Carter with whom the young preacher lodged in Cambridge, but by members of the family of Avis Linnell, his victim.

Asked Individual Reports.

It is reported at the State House that Governor Foss and Secretary Holman when he called yesterday to have him and his colleagues on the Richeson plenary board—Doctors Tuttle and Frost—submit individual reports to him rather than a joint report, or both.

Former Senator William A. Morse, counsel for Richeson, is so noised that their petition for commutation will be referred to the Executive Council by Governor Foss, despite conflicting reports concerning the conclusions of mental experts, that he spent the greater part of this morning examining witnesses whose testimony would be necessary at the Council hearing.

Three witnesses from Hyannis were summoned to his office. Their statements were taken by Mr. Morse's stenographer. Captain and Mrs. Gilbert Smith were first examined and later a middle-aged man was closeted with Mr. Morse and his secretary for close to an hour. The name of the latter witness was withheld.

Counsel Hopeful.

After the witnesses had left Attorney Morse admitted that he had been collecting corroborative evidence from them and added:

"In spite of what I read in the newspapers as coming from the Governor's office, I am still hopeful that our petition will be referred to the Executive Council, but I do not think it will be submitted Wednesday. I don't think the other three mental experts will be ready with their report so soon."

"If we were to accept as gospel truth

LOUDEST N. H. CHEERS FOR CLARK

CONCORD, N. H., May 14.—A demonstration which lasted several minutes greeted the announcement of the name of Champ Clark for President by President Samuel D. Felker of the Democratic State committee at the Democratic State convention here today. Delegates flung their hats in the air and cheered again and again for Missouri's favorite son. The applause indicated that Champ Clark was the favorite of the candidates for the Democratic nomination for President.

President Felker was just reaching the close of his speech when he mentioned the names of the candidates. He named Harmon, Underwood, Wilson and Clark, in order. There were no cheers for Harmon or Underwood. Wilson's name elicited some applause. Bryan's name also was mentioned, and there was applause for the Nebraskan. But the climax was reached when Clark's name was mentioned.

Of Colonel Roosevelt Mr. Felker said: "If Roosevelt is elected what does he want to do? Does he want to get rid of President Taft and his cabinet and the Republican senate? The Democrats can attend to that and will do so. Does he want to revise the tariff? He could easily get big headlines in the newspapers by starting his position on the tariff. Does he want to destroy the Money Trust? Does anybody know how he stands on that question?"

Unless the usual signs have gone wrong about nine-tenths of the Democrats of New Hampshire expect today's convening to instruct its four delegates-at-large to vote for Champ Clark. The same proportion of the Democratic party in the Granite State believes that the spectacular will be nominated and triumphantly elected. One of the things that appalls most to the rank and file of the party in this section is Mr. Clark's "regularity." There is nothing in his party history for his admirers to explain away. He has always been a plain, vigorous, fighting and outspoken Democrat.

Doyle Praises Clark.

The "right before" gathering was the largest and most enthusiastic the State has seen in twenty years. At the caucus, former Mayor J. J. Doyle of Nashua came out vigorously for Clark and got hearty applause.

The caucus voted to invite Congressman James M. Curley of Massachusetts to make an address, and he spoke for fifteen minutes on the auspicious outlook for the Democratic party and talked on the tariff to some length.

The Clark ticket talked for delegates-at-large is James F. Brennan of Peterboro, David E. Murphy of Concord, Dr. George Mellegue of Littleton and John W. Center of Manchester. All of these men are for Clark and are willing to go instructed for him.

Fred H. Brown of Somersworth was elected permanent chairman, and John E. King of Penacook, secretary. Samuel D. Felker of Rochester was named as presiding officer of the convention, with a full list of county vice-presidents and committees. Alden G. Kelly of Derry was selected as chairman of the credentials committee.

Carr Made Chairman.

"All that we are after," said one of those who had come to Concord without any personal ambition, "is instructions for Champ Clark. This is the time for New Hampshire, for once, to get in right. When the great mass of New Hampshire Democrats want that man nominated who admittedly is far and away in the lead at this time, it ought to be the inclination

BABY BORN AFTER MOTHER DIED IS WELL

NEW YORK, May 14.—Many visitors, mostly mothers, went to Fordham Hospital to ask permission to see the motherless little boy who drew his first breath at that institution last Friday morning, after one of the rarest surgical feats. Although none was permitted to see the infant, all were assured he was rounding into one of the healthiest in the ward. "That baby is one of the healthiest I have ever seen for his age," said Miss Nash, superintendent of the hospital. "Will he live? Well, I should say he will! There is absolutely nothing the matter with him."

IRISH LEAGUE MEETS.

A meeting of Boston Central Branch of the United Irish League will be held at the American House on Friday evening to welcome home John O'Callaghan, national secretary, who will deliver an address.

Fly Paper Trappers of Pigeons Arrested

Judge Sees No Criminal Intent and Frees Men Who Spread Paper.

Three men who spread the roof of a house at No. 75 G street, South Boston, with fly paper to catch pigeons which had been breaking up the slumbers of the neighborhood, were arrested today, charged with cruelty to animals.

The men are Elden A. Clark, James Montague and Robert Hawes. They were hired to rid the roof of the birds and the owner of the house suggested fly paper. The morning after the paper was spread the roof was littered with dead pigeons, broken wings and quantities of feathers. Agent D. A. Bouve of the S. P. C. A. was notified and made the complaint against the men. Judge Fallon in the South Boston District Court found the men not guilty and they were discharged. He said there was no criminal intent.

TWO DEAD, TEN MISSING AFTER SANITARIUM FIRE

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 14.—Two are known to be dead, ten other persons are missing and 500 patients of the Jones Sanitarium at Raleigh Springs, ten miles from Memphis, were forced to jump from a second-story window, when the institution burned at 4 o'clock this morning. The patients were forced to flee in their night clothing.

It is believed that the missing may have been saved, but a search of the ruins is being made for their bodies.

FIFTEEN MEN ARE BURIED ALIVE BY MINE EXPLOSION

IRONWOOD, Mich., May 14.—Fifteen men were buried alive by an explosion in the Norris Mine, near here, early today. All are believed to be dead. Two bodies have been recovered, and rescuers are working desperately to reach the others.

FEAR FOR SAFETY OF BROOKLYN BRIDGE

NEW YORK, May 14.—The old Brooklyn bridge is condemned unsafe. Orders issued by the city bridge department prohibit heavy teams from using the roadways and direct the elevated railroads to curtail their traffic during the rush hours. Extensive repairs are being made to the structure. A statement given out by the secretary of the Public Service Board says: "The strain on the bridge, when heavily laden with cars, trains and trucks, is naturally very great, and for this reason it has been deemed wise to restrict traffic thereon."

HUNGER DRIVEN, SELLS CHILDREN

CHICAGO, May 14.—Driven to desperation by hunger, William Dant, who lives with his wife and five children in a stuffy basement at No. 220 East Sixteenth street, has been compelled to give away one of his children, and now offers two more for sale. Dant, an invalid, has not worked at his trade for some years. He said today there is no other way by which he can obtain food for the children and their mother, herself in poor health.

GRAND TRUNK VICTORY

A bill authorizing the Southern New England Railroad Corporation, the Massachusetts branch of the Grand Trunk Railway system, to build extensions to Boston and Worcester, was reported to the Legislature Committee on Railroads today by the sub-committee which was appointed to draft "a Grand Trunk bill."

The sub-committee met at the State House last night. The five members of the committee were unanimous on the proposition.

The members of the sub-committee, with the exception of Senator Powers, have been considered by friends of the Grand Trunk as doubtful on the proposal. Senator Powers has, from the beginning, stood out for an honest Grand Trunk bill. Nothing to the contrary should be said of the other four members in view of the position they have taken. They have shown they have not been susceptible to the means resorted to by the interests who have fought, and are fighting, the entrance of the Grand Trunk into Boston.

Boston business men and other public-spirited citizens who are enlisted in the movement to get the Grand Trunk road into this city were loud in their praise today of the members of the sub-committee. Every member came in for particular commendation.

What the Bill Provides.

Just before the decision was reached Charles S. Baxter and Judge Thomas W. Kenefick of Palmer, of counsel for the Southern New England road, were called into conference by the committee. At the end of the conference it was given out that the counsel and committee had put in record on the bill reported.

The bill is a genuine Grand Trunk bill. It grants nearly every important privilege asked for in the original Grand Trunk petition filed with the Legislature, including several which call for changes in the general laws.

Briefly, the bill permits the Grand Trunk or, rather, its subsidiary, the Southern New England, to build:

First—A route from the New Hampshire State line to Boston through Middlesex County towns.

Second—A line from Blackstone to Boston through Norfolk County towns, connecting with the Grand Trunk's line to Providence.

Third—An extension of the Grand Trunk's Palmer-Providence line from Uxbridge to Worcester. This will put Worcester on a through connection with Providence or Canada by way of the Grand Trunk lines.

What Bill Provides.

These extensions mean:

First—A great trunk line connecting us with the great West of the United States and the great wheat fields of the Canadian West and Northwest.

Second—Competition in service, as well as rates, both on intra and inter-State business; and

Third—It means not only increase of vast commercial relations with Canada, but with other countries as well.

To enable the Grand Trunk to make these extensions outlined, the company is given the right of eminent domain in taking land for its road and is authorized to lay out its railroad up to five rods in width through the entire length thereof, and for the purpose of cuttings, embankments, and for procuring stone and gravel, and for obtaining land for stations, car-houses, round houses, freight houses, docks, wharves, elevators and other structures, may purchase or otherwise take from time to time as much more land as may be reasonably necessary for the proper construction and security and the convenient operation of its railroad.

Will File Locations.

The company is authorized and empowered to purchase or otherwise to take from time to time any lands or rights belonging to any other railroad or other public service corporation not necessary for such corporation's present business or its business in the reasonably near future, but it shall not have the right to acquire by eminent domain any portion of the location or right of way of any other railroad or street railway company except such lands or rights as the Railroad Commission shall adjudge necessary for the support, construction and repair of bridges or other methods of crossing such railroad or street railway.

The corporation shall pay all damages caused by laying out, making and maintaining its railroad, or by taking land or materials therefor, and such damages shall be estimated and determined as under the present railroad laws.

Deny Evelyn Thaw Is Mother

"Ridiculous," Say Her Counsel

19-Months-Old Babe Mystery

EVELYN THAW, WHO HAS GONE INTO SECLUSION.

DECLARE THAT REPORT IS "WITHOUT ANY FOUNDATION IN FACT."

NEW YORK, May 14.—Close friends of Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw have announced that she is the mother of a nineteen months-old baby. The baby is said to have been born near Hamburg, Germany, where the mother was temporarily sojourning.

In contradiction of these statements, representatives of the Thaw family, including Roger O'Mara of Pittsburg, and Clarence J. Shearn, counsel for Harry Thaw, denied the paternity of the child and even questioned its existence.

After a thorough investigation of the story, the AMERICAN is convinced of the fact that there is at least a baby. Authority is the name which is said to have been given it, and it is said to be possessed of all the beauty of its mother, with black curling locks and laughing eyes.

Belated announcement of the birth of the child coming on the eve of Thaw's renewed battle for his liberty, insures consideration as sensational as any that have dazzled the famous ones.

Mystery surrounds the birth of the said baby from the beginning. There is not as yet any authentication of the event. Mrs. Thaw herself has gone into seclusion. She is believed to be at the home of her mother, Mrs. C. J. Holman in Pittsburg. Mrs. Holman refuses to discuss the story. Thaw sends out word from Matteawan that he has nothing to say. Mrs. William Thaw, his mother, is similarly silent.

Jerome, O'Reilly and other lawyers who were concerned in the Thaw trial, cast doubt upon the story. Doctors Flint and Evans, physicians and alienists who have been identified professionally with the principals in the case from the beginning, express surprise at the news. At the Borchard apartments, No. 220 West Ninety-ninth street, where in a suite reged to a Mrs. Thurston, a sculptress, Mrs. Thaw, who also dabbles in sculpture, is known to have resided, it was said that she left there last Friday.

Mr. Shearn refused to place any credence in the report.

"It is ridiculous," he said. "Simply a story without any foundation in fact."

ROOSEVELT MAKES VEILED THREAT TO BOLT IF DEFEATED

STEUBENVILLE, O., May 14.—After enthusiastic greetings by Milltown workers and residents at Bellaire and Bridgeport today, Theodore Roosevelt declared that he would certainly be nominated if he succeed President Taft. At Bridgeport a briefly discussed the tariff before 2,500 people, saying he wanted a duty reduction that would give a fair deal to both manufacturer and consumer. On arriving here he said:

"I want Ohio, with its great record of the past, to stand with us in this night. Mind you, we are going to win anyhow. But I want Ohio to take part in the victory. I want you to stand as Pennsylvania and Illinois did for the right of the people to rule as against the bosses."

The ex-President made a veiled threat to bolt if denied out of the nomination. "If they think, as all the contraband I'll have a great deal to say," he declared.

SPEAKER CLARK WINS DELEGATES FROM WYOMING

CHEYENNE, Wyo., May 14.—Speaker Champ Clark secured the six delegates from Wyoming to the Democratic National Convention. They go to Baltimore pledged directly from the State Convention to vote for the Speaker. Their election and pledge followed an all-day convention. The delegates are:

John D. Clark of Cheyenne, F. J. Quesley of Kemmerer, R. Montgomery, Gillette; James C. Mayer, Lusk; A. N. Hazenmuig, Laramie; B. F. Perkins, Sheridan.

Colonel Roosevelt met with a complete turndown in the State Convention of the Republicans. Strong Taft delegates were elected and the delegation pledged by resolution to President Taft.

GIRL OF 12 DROWNS IN SIGHT OF FATHER

GREAT BARRINGTON, N. H., May 14.—Crying to her father to come to her assistance, Lillian Geoppiet, a handsome twenty-year-old girl of Otis, was drowned in Otis pond. Her father was only a few feet away. Miss Geoppiet was rowing across the pond. When she reached the middle the boat capsized. Her father, John Geoppiet, was standing on the bank when he heard his daughter's cries for help. Launching a boat, he pulled against a head wind. When only a few feet away his daughter made one last cry and disappeared. Her body has not been recovered.

GOVERNOR TO DECIDE ON RICHESON'S PLEA TODAY

what one morning paper printed we might assume that it was time to throw up our hands, but I have other notions. I have no use the language of the sea, gone just as hard and far on his tack as it was possible to go, and now I am here to, anxiously waiting before shifting the helm to any other course.

"I didn't have time to go to the jail yesterday, but I expect to go down there this afternoon, or by noon perhaps." (This would indicate that Richeson will not be transferred today.)

Await Alienists' Report.

"I have not heard a single thing from the State House, nor do I know the nature of Dr. Briggs' findings. I haven't even been notified that he had filed his report. Simply read about it in the newspapers.

"Of course everything will now depend upon the conclusions of the other three experts appointed by Governor Foss. I am a little surprised to hear that they have been requested to submit individual reports, if, by the way, such a report is authentic.

"It would be unusual practice, I could think, in view of the fact that they constitute a lunacy board and might be expected to report as a body. A joint report would really constitute their individual conclusions.

"For instance, they could report as a majority or minority. If there was a dissenting opinion, it could be incorporated in accordance with the customary form. This, I believe, would be much preferable to individual reports after they had acted jointly in their tests and observations.

"I imagine that they will have to get together and talk over certain phases, and that they will not be ready to submit their findings in time to have the matter referred to the Council Wednesday."

Councilor Edward D. Collins of South Boston, the only Democratic member of the Governor's Council today, said:

"The report that I favored the commutation of the sentence of Clarence V. T. Richeson is false. I believe in carrying out the laws of our Commonwealth and in this particular case, shall make special efforts along that line.

"I believe Mr. Richeson is sane and always has believed that. However, if it be shown in the opinion of the findings of experts that he was insane at the time he committed the crime I would favor clemency and the respiting of his sentence from time to time as provided by the statute.

"If I find that he was sane when he committed that crime, but is insane now I shall vote to have the death sentence carried out. I want my position in this matter understood."

Sheriff Quinn has been very kind to Richeson. But it is known Richeson treated the patience of all with whom he came in contact. The weight of responsibility on the sheriff's shoulders began to tell on Quinn. He could not sleep, fearing something would happen to the prisoner, a prisoner whose safekeeping was a great deal to do with hastening the death of Sheriff Seavey Quinn's predecessor.

Death Cell Awaits Him.

A closed carriage was procured and held in readiness today for the trip. It was arranged for the sheriff and two jail attendants to accompany Richeson. At the Charlestown prison, Richeson's cell has been in readiness for several days. When the prisoner reaches there he goes into the hands of Warden Bridges and out of the hands of the sheriff.

Before Governor Foss reached the State House today he had digested thoroughly the long report on Richeson's sanity made by Dr. I. Vernon Briggs. The Governor had received an intimation, it is believed, of what the other alienists—Drs. Stedman, Frost and Tuttle—had found.

There were conflicting reports as to what the findings were. One story said they had found Richeson accountable for his acts. Another was that Dr. Briggs declared he was afflicted with "emotional and hysterical insanity."

The Governor would not say what had been reported to him nor would he tell whether he would submit the case to the council, which meets tomorrow.

Even if Governor Foss refers the plea to the Council or recommends that the sentence of death be deferred till the prisoner becomes sane again, it is probable that the councillors will vote to send the prisoner to the death chair. Only Schuster would favor the poisoner's plea. He is supposed to uphold punishment.

Here is the way the Council would vote according to a man who has taken a census of them all, or is familiar with their opinions on the question, "Shall Richeson live?"

Lieutenant-Governor Lace—No.
Ellery S. Keith—Yes.
J. Stevens Cushing—No.
Edward D. Collins—No.
Alexander McGregor—No.
Edward G. Frothingham—No.
Herbert E. Fletcher—No.
Winfield S. Schuster—Yes.
August H. Goerting—No.
For life, 2; for death, 7.

Foss Not Sympathizer.

Governor Foss has been concerned simply to find out if Richeson was accountable at the time that he committed the murder. He has not the slightest sympathy with the condemned man. He states that he is only here interested in rendering justice for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. The Governor is studiously set on one opinion; that is, that if Richeson is insane he cannot be executed under the Massachusetts, since the law specifically provides against the electrocution of an insane person.

"You know," said the Governor, "a man may be insane when he commits his acts for his actions. He cited the case of a lawyer who had struck a friend in a fit of passion, and who, following this action, committed suicide. This lawyer was out on bail, pending the trial of his case. He was a nervous wreck from fright."

This illustration was offered by the Governor to illustrate his conception of the motives which prompted Richeson to mutilate himself.

It was stated at the office of the Governor that hundreds of letters had been received, mostly from women, asking for mercy for Richeson.

In the counsel of the Governor said:

"I have read the report of Dr. Briggs and I don't see how he can reform that body of men, the Executive Council."

Aside from the statement of Dr. Briggs, the Governor has received verbal statements from three brain experts as to their opinions regarding Richeson's mental days, that while the condemned man is mentally responsible for his acts, he is mentally defective that he can be held absolutely blameless or any different from a dumb chair singer.

One of the significant features of the preparations to remove Richeson to the death cell was the provision of a strong guard as precaution against any outbreak during the ride through the streets.

Cries of "Bring out Richeson," and "Let us have him," and similar expressions from gatherings of excited persons outside the portals of the Charles Street Jail have not escaped the notice of Sheriff Quinn. When arranging the details of the ride of Richeson to the State Prison, Deputy Warden Bridges of the bare possibility that there might be need of more protection than usually is sent on such a trip.

"Well, remarked the warden, "if they try to injure our man we can care for them. We have twenty officers at the jail bond in readiness for an emergency."

To this Sheriff Quinn responded: "I can spare twenty officers. I guess we will get along all right."

After another private examination by alienists, Richeson remained the same unperturbed person. On arriving at his cell following the departure of the alienists, he called for cigars. Then he played a game of checkers with the negro, Butts, who is in the same corridor, after several stories asked if he might see the papers. Carefully he read what he had written of his life battle, but no comment would be make. One of the jail attendants said that he viewed Richeson's conduct during the examination by the alienists as a bluff. He could not attempt such a ruse on Dr. Briggs, this fact was several times commented on by the doctors after he had been taken from their presence.

Richeson Confident.

During his ordeal, which marked the third successive day that he had been brought before Drs. Stedman, Frost and Tuttle, the condemned man displayed confidence and fatigue. But after the proceedings had ended he left the luxurious attached library of Sheriff Quinn with a step. And as he passed along the corridor, Richeson smiled and nodded his head to one of the keepers.

Another development that indicated that Richeson will be removed to the death chamber at the Charlestown State Prison today, came in the assignment of Inspector Morris Wolf from police headquarters to the Charles Street Jail. This is believed to be part of Sheriff Quinn's plan to guard against any demonstration while Richeson is being transferred.

It was late when the special alienists selected by the Governor left the jail. Drs. Stedman, Frost and Tuttle had had Richeson under examination for the third time.

They did not tell Sheriff Quinn that they had finished their examination, but left the impression that they would be on hand with the work. If no word is sent to the jail tonight calling for the further retention of the slayer, Richeson will pass his last night in the death cell at the State prison tonight.

Question Jail Officers.

Afterwards, Richeson stood at the door of his cell, apparently scanning the faces of the jailers and attendants as they returned from the consultation room, where they had gone to answer questions as to the condition of the prisoner. He seemed to know those officials whose opinion was detrimental to his cause.

But to those members of the jail staff in whom he reposed confidence he could not help betraying his anxiety. He boldly inquired of some of the officers if they talk with the Lunacy Commission was favorable to him—if he had said a good word for him and what was the nature of the questioning by the experts.

Richeson, since his incarceration, has occupied a large cell on the second tier of the north wing of the jail, overlooking Charles street and the Charles river. It is a roomy cell—one of the largest in the prison. For a cell mate he has had the negro, Butts, awaiting trial.

Butts In Smaller Cell.

Richeson is still confined in the same cell. Inside of it is practically another cell, which may be locked and made separate, save that to enter its barred door one has also to walk through the doorway of the larger cell. Butts is locked in the smaller one at night. Richeson has the larger one.

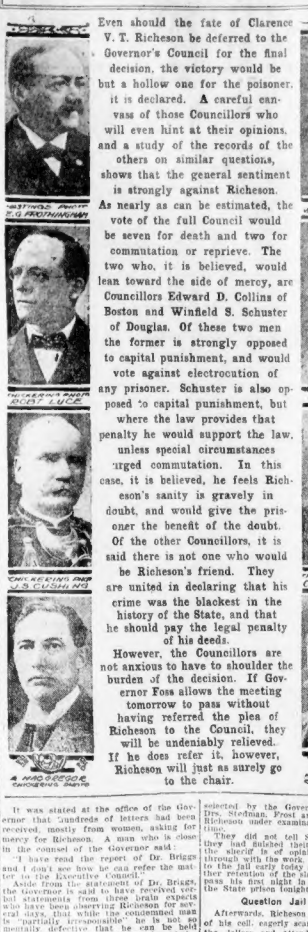
During the day one guard remains on duty at the door, which is kept locked. At night the cell door is left open and a guard sits in it. The guard is changed every forty minutes. The jailers on duty at night have implicit instructions not to take their eyes off Richeson for a second, and it is to see that this order is carried out that the guard is changed frequently.

When the time comes for Sheriff Quinn to remove Richeson he will notify the condemned man only a few minutes prior to the hour set for the transfer. This will be no matter how pathetic the condemned man's pleas, it will be of no avail.

Richeson will be taken from his cell, guarded by two jailers, one walking in front and the other behind the condemned man. He will be led down the iron stairways to the rotunda and across it and through the iron door leading from the jail into the sheriff's office.

There are two exits from the office. They open out on either side of the sheriff's house. It is most likely that the one behind the house and farthest away from the rear windows of the houses on Charlestown street will be used. That would prevent any persons in the windows of those houses from witnessing the departure of Richeson from the office.

COUNCIL SEVEN TO TWO AGAINST COMMUTATION



Even should the fate of Clarence V. T. Richeson be deferred to the Governor's Council for the final decision, the victory would be but a hollow one for the poisoner, it is declared. A careful canvass of those Councillors who will even hint at their opinions, and a study of the records of the others on similar questions, shows that the general sentiment is strongly against Richeson.

As nearly as can be estimated, the vote of the full Council would be seven for death and two for commutation or reprieve. The two who, it is believed, would lean toward the side of mercy, are Councillors Edward D. Collins of Boston and Winfield S. Schuster of Douglas. Of these two men the former is strongly opposed to capital punishment, and would vote against electrocution of any prisoner. Schuster is also opposed to capital punishment, but where the law provides that penalty he would support the law, unless special circumstances urged commutation. In this case, it is believed, he feels Richeson's sanity is gravely in doubt, and would give the prisoner the benefit of the doubt.

Of the other Councillors, it is said there is not one who would be Richeson's friend. They are united in declaring that his crime was the blackest in the history of the State, and that he should pay the legal penalty of his deeds.

However, the Councillors are not anxious to have to shoulder the burden of the decision. If Governor Foss allows the meeting tomorrow to pass without having referred the plea of Richeson to the Council, they will be undeniably relieved.

If he does refer Richeson will just as surely go to the chair.

DORR SHAMS, SAYS NURSE

The arraignment of William A. Dorr, set for today, will again be postponed, according to reports on Dorr's condition from the jail authorities at Salem.

Dorr is reported as being much stronger today. When one of the turnkeys at the jail asked him how he felt, Dorr replied, "Pretty good today." As yet Dorr has taken no solid food, but has taken milk and other liquid foods.

That Dorr stood high in Stockton, was a member of the church choir and a favorite socially was the statement of Miss Florence Thomas, the nurse who accompanied him on the trip East. Miss Julia Ballinger, his fiancee, was also a leader among the society folk of the town.

"The prisoner was well liked in Stockton," said Miss Thomas. "The young woman, Miss Julia Ballinger, to whom he was engaged, is well known and well liked. She is an expert stenographer and holds a responsible position with Ruhl, Goodell & Company. At one time Dorr kept company with the daughter of a well known shoe dealer. They separated after some disagreement. Later he was seen with the Ballinger girl, and the announcement of their engagement was made public a short time ago.

"The Baptist church circles Dorr was prominent. He sang in the choir of the Stockton First Baptist Church and was connected with several of the church societies.

"Stockton people were really surprised when Dorr was arrested. Of course many have circulated stories against him since his arrest, but of course that always happens.

Thinks Dorr Shamming.

"Personally I did not know Dorr, but I knew of him, through his business connections in the motorcycle line.

"There is no doubt in my mind that Dorr is doing more or less shamming," she continued.

"I had a short talk with him, and I am firmly convinced that his actions on the train were a bluff.

"My attitude towards Dorr has entirely changed. Accompanied by Inspector William H. Kane of the Lynn police, I visited the prisoner in the hospital ward of the Essex County Jail. We were ushered into his cell by one of the jail attendants. I said, 'Hello, Billie; how do you feel?' Dorr looked up and said, 'I am feeling fine.'

"I told him that he looked much better that he did while coming from Stockton. The moment I spoke these words, referring to Stockton, he seemed to shut right up. He drew his eyes, and refused to discuss his condition any more. I rubbed his bow and spoke to him a few times more. He did not answer. Inspector Kane tried several times afterwards to get him to say something, but failed.

"I had a talk with Dr. Frank S. Atwood, who is one of the jail physicians. The doctor has had the opportunity to study Dorr more or less. I said: 'Doctor, what do you think of this Dorr case?' He gave it as his opinion that Dorr was simply a nervous wreck, from fright.

"The reporter inquired as to whether or not Dorr has gained any strength since he has been confined in the Essex County Jail. Miss Thomas said that he showed a vast improvement. She claims that he is still in a dangerous condition, and unless he gets the best of care believes he may not live. When asked what caused Dorr's illness, Miss Thomas said:

"I think Billie's present condition is brought about by fright. I have seen prisoners before who, before their trial, showed a 'yellow streak,' but when they were informed by their attorney that they had no chance of proving their innocence, they appear to take a new lease of life, gain in health considerably, and undergoes a great change for the better.

"Dorr is one of the most peculiar patients I have ever attended. Of course he has been a very sick man, but he is today, yet I sincerely believe that if somebody that the government did not have a strong case against him, would come and set up courage and recover. If he believes that he is a dummy, he may have an attack of heart failure and expire."

MISS BATEMAN, WHO WAS TO WED AGED MLILIONAIRE

NEWPORT, May 14.—News reached this city today that Miss Dorothy Bateman, who was to have married Ross R. Winans of Baltimore was to have been the bride of the old millionaire this Spring.

This would be a further explanation of the generous bequest of the rather eccentric rich man. None of the Bateman family would discuss the story when an attempt was made to confirm it. In the past it has been denied that there was an engagement between the beautiful girl and Winans.

But the story now comes from a source that is regarded here as authoritative. Mrs. J. O'Neill, the grandmother of Dorothy Bateman, who lives at Orlando, Fla., made this statement, according to a dispatch from there today:

"My granddaughter, Dorothy Bateman, and Winans had been engaged since last Fall. They were to have been married in June."

Mrs. O'Neill has been ill and did not hear of her granddaughter's inheritance until a day or two ago. She obtained the information in a letter from Newport. Mrs. O'Neill was not surprised, having suspected Winans would make an ante-nuptial settlement on her granddaughter.

The report from Florida is not doubted here, where the friendship of Miss Bateman and Mr. Winans was watched with interest. It is known Winans contemplated returning to Newport this Spring, and has now bettered the wedding which would have rung next month if Winans had not died.

When Winans came here two years ago, his visit having been closed, he went to the Bateman inn. Dorothy Bateman, a charming young girl, was kind to the old man. After he went back to Baltimore he sent him little remembrances, especially at Christmas time, and he was looking forward to his return to Newport this Spring.

NO MORE DANDRUFF, FALLING HAIR OR ITCHY SCALP IF YOU DO THIS

Your hair looks soft, fluffy, lustrous and abundant after a Danderine hair cleanse.

Immediate?—Yes. Certain?—that's the joy of it. Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a Danderine hair cleanse. Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

A delightful surprise awaits, particularly those who have been careless, whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff, cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

Try as you will, you cannot find any dandruff or a loose or falling hair and your scalp will never itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use of Danderine, when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair, and lots of it, surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and just try it.

APPROVED AIDS TO HEALTH AND BEAUTY

HARMLESS EYE-TONIC — A plain witch hazel solution has the weak, watery, inflamed eyes, and 2 or 3 drops once a day in each eye quickly relieve and strengthen the tired, aching muscles. To make, dissolve 1 ounce crystals in a pint cold water. This crystor eye-tonic is good to remove foreign particles and for granulation. Many find that glasses can be discarded after using this eye tonic for a few weeks or for dull eyes it will make them bright and attractive.

EFFECTIVE HAIR-REMOVER—Mix with cold water enough powdered delatone to form a paste; then spread on hairy surface. After 3 or 4 minutes, rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. This is a harmless, quick and effective method and seldom requires a second application.

TRY THIS GREASELESS CREAM—Dissolve 1 ounce powdered borax in a pint cold water, then add 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine; shake well and you have the finest greaseless cream-jelly at a trifling cost. Use a tablespoonful to rub into the skin, and after a few applications pimples, blackheads and other ugly, deadly, lifeless condition will vanish. As a protection against chapping, sunburn, etc., and to remove wrinkles this cream is not equalled.

FOR FAILING STRENGTH — That "all-gone" feeling, or a "muddy" complexion, pimply skin, indicates the impoverished condition of the blood. A good cleanser and tonic for the purpose can be made by dissolving 1 cupful sugar in 1 pint alcohol, then adding 1 teaspoonful sassafras, and hot water to make a quart. Take a tablespoonful in a little before meals and it will rid the blood of poisonous matter, clear the complexion, build up the body and give you health, strength and a clear, beautiful skin.

TONIC FOR THE SCALP—To ½ pint alcohol add 2 dr. each bay rum and pint; 1 ounce quinosin and you will have a full pint of the best hair tonic you ever saw. This quinosin tonic stops irritation, dispels dandruff and excess oiliness and promotes a healthy scalp from which an abundance of long, silky, brilliant hair will grow.

WHO IS CITY'S PRETTIEST GIRL?

Many names and photographs of pretty girls of Greater Boston have been entered in the AMERICAN'S Princess Contest.

This contest is started to show who is the prettiest girl in Greater Boston, according to the popular estimate. She is to be dressed like a princess, free of cost.

The large number of entries and pictures, with the contest just begun, shows that a great many people are interested right away in this question.

Naturally in the first place the mere question of who is the prettiest girl in the city is enough to draw universal attention. People have different ideas of beauty. Each girl has her own ideas. Lots of young men each think one particular girl is the prettiest of all. You couldn't budge them from that idea with a steam roller. Which is just as it should be. Art is to have their critical pieces of beauty. Sometimes the popular idea is different from the artistic one. The element of personal charm is a large factor in the popular estimate of a beauty.

And this fact is particularly noteworthy in this Princess Contest because it is a voting contest. The Queen of Beauty is to be decided by popular ballot. Every person is eligible to vote and the rigid standards of art, with its classic ideals, may have to give way, in the end, before the popular fancy which counts personality as a great asset in beauty.

Enter a Girl Yourself.

Most pretty girls are modest about their beauty. They will not enter a contest of this kind voluntarily. But, if you know a pretty girl, especially a very popular one, send in her photograph and enter her in the contest. She will not take offense.

If you have no friends in this contest, vote for some one of the candidates in it.

Outside of the beauty question, which fascinates every girl, there is the splendid array of awards headed with the Princess outfit for the winner. The winner will be arrayed really like a Princess, all at the AMERICAN'S expense.

So the girl who is voted the prettiest of all will get a substantial result, in addition to the beauty title.

This contest arose through a remark by Miss Emily Selinger, the noted poet-ess, writer, that Miss Helen Clifford of Roxbury, is one of the prettiest girls in all Greater Boston. Mrs. Selinger praised Miss Clifford's beauty so warmly that discussion arose as to who is the MOST BEAUTIFUL girl in Boston.

The contest was inaugurated Sunday by a photograph of Miss Clifford, loaned by the Otto Sarony Company, No. 146 Tremont street, was printed, with an article by Mrs. Selinger, commending on the picture from an artistic standpoint.

Readers and contestants must understand clearly that Miss Clifford is NOT a competitor in this contest in any way. This question has been asked and the answer is absolutely "NO."

This explanation is made so that the publication of Miss Clifford's picture will be clearly understood.

Clipping Coupons Now.

The AMERICAN will publish a page of beauty competitors next Sunday. They will interest you much.

Save your coupons. Every ballot counts. Begin now to clip the coupons if you wish to be a voter in this fascinating competition.

This is called a Princess Contest because the winner of the first beauty prize is to be dressed like a Princess by the AMERICAN.

Girls, get around about and listen.

The girl who is selected as the most beautiful girl in Greater Boston can order for herself an entire outfit at the expense of the AMERICAN. She may go to any store in Boston, select the gown she likes and send the bill to the AMERICAN. She may select any hat in any Boston store and the AMERICAN will pay for it. Likewise, this most beautiful girl may choose her hosiery, shoes, lingerie and parasol in any store at the AMERICAN'S expense.

How is this most beautiful girl to be known? Read carefully the arrangements made by the AMERICAN in the Princess Contest advertisement for establishing the Princess girls, the Greater Boston beauty.

Send in Your Photographs.

You may enter your friends and send in their photographs. If you or they have no photograph or desire a new one for this purpose, the AMERICAN will furnish you with an order on Otto Sarony Company, No. 146 Tremont street, where your picture will be taken at the AMERICAN'S expense.

The most beautiful girl is not the only one who will receive a splendid gift from the AMERICAN. There are other gifts for the other beautiful girls, 200 in all. The full list of awards is as follows:

FIRST PRIZE.

The outfit of a Princess (of winner's selection).

Society Sees Itself in Clever Tarbell Portraits

Copley Hall Is Thronged by the Fashionable Set

SOME OF THE PORTRAITS OF SOCIETY WOMEN BY EDMUND C. TARBELL NOW ON VIEW IN COPLEY HALL.

MRS. OAKES AMES

MRS. HENRY M. CHANNING

MRS. JOHN S. LAWRENCE

Canvasses of Prominent Matrons by Distinguished Artist Meet With High Praise.

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

Society has found great pleasure in the exhibition of Edmund C. Tarbell's portraits of society folk at Copley Hall, which opened last Tuesday and was preraced by a private view.

Among the portraits attracting most attention are those of Mrs. Jack Lawrence, the youthful and beautiful daughter-in-law of Amory Lawrence, who recently married Mrs. Tom Dugan of New York; that of Mrs. Oakes Ames and one of Mrs. Henry M. Channing. The one which attracts immediate attention upon entering the hall is that of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Prince. Mr. Prince mounted on one of his finest hunters and Mrs. Prince in riding togs standing beside another splendid specimen of racing horseflesh, the background showing the sea in the distance. The scene is evidently from their Beverly Farms estate on the North Shore.

Mrs. Oscar Iasigi's life-size portrait of head and shoulders also comes in for much attention, as well as the portrait of Mrs. John C. Phillips, Jr. Mrs. Phillips is painted seated on the greensward with a background in which pond lilies are conspicuous.

The portrait of Mrs. Joseph Gardner Bradley, a daughter of the late Samuel D. Warren, and a huntswoman of note, is shown mounted and riding briskly on a country road.

The portrait of Mrs. Ames, one of the most interesting of the younger members of society, is especially attractive. Mrs. Ames is one of the most charming matrons and mothers of her smart coterie. The Ameses have a beautiful estate at North Easton, where they spend the greater part of their time.

Mrs. Channing, whose portrait is especially fine and who before her marriage was Katherine Minot, daughter of the late William Minot, is tall and graceful and of the pure brunette type.

Naturally one of the most beautiful of the portraits is that of the charming young wife of John S. Lawrence, who, before her marriage, was pretty Emma Atherton, one of the most important debutantes of her year, and bearing the distinction of being the first bud of her season to marry.

Before their marriage the Lawrences have spent the greater part of their time traveling abroad. Boston society seeing little of them during the little of them. When at home, however, they are among the foremost entertainers of their set. At their Topsfield estate, which they occupy practically the year round while in America, they entertain continually. Mrs. Lawrence is an exceptionally accomplished young matron, and was one of the most valued members of the Vincent Club before her marriage. Ever since she has frequently graced entertainments given by the club for charity.

The exhibition of Mr. Tarbell's paintings is given under the auspices of the Copley Society. Mr. Tarbell is one of the foremost artists of America, and his society portraits have won him fame throughout the land. He is a Massachusetts man, born in West Groton, and has won prizes at all the foreign exhibitions.

CHILDREN HATE CASTOR OIL, UGH!

Delicious "Syrup of Figs" Best for Their Little Stomachs, Liver and Waste-Clogged Bowels.

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the physic that mother insisted on—castor oil, calomel, cathartics. How you hated them, how you fought against taking them.

With our children it's different. The day of harsh physic is over. We don't force the liver and 30 feet of bowels now; we coax them. We have no dreaded after effects. Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realize what they do. The children's revolt is well-founded. Their little stomachs and tender bowels are injured by them.

If your child is fretful, peevish, half sick, stomach sour, breath feverish and its little system full of cold; has diarrhoea, sore throat, stomachache; doesn't eat or rest well—remember—look at the tongue, if coated, give a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs, then don't worry, because you surely will have a well, smiling child in a few hours.

Syrup of Figs, being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics simply, cannot be harmful. It sweetens the stomach, makes the liver active and thoroughly cleanses the little one's waste-clogged bowels. In a few hours all sour bile, undigested fermenting food and constipated waste matter gently moves on and out of the system without griping or nausea.

Directions for children of all ages, also for grown-ups, plainly printed on the package.

By all means get the genuine. Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. Accept nothing else.

GIRL SUES BILLY SUNDAY'S SINGER

CHICAGO, May 14.—Homer Rodeheaver, singer of revival hymns who has been connected with the tours of Rev. "Billy" Sunday, is defendant in a suit for $50,000 damages for breach of promise filed by Miss Georgia W. Jay. Miss Jay, who now lives in Chicago, met Rodeheaves in a small town in Iowa when the singing evangelist was there with Mr. Sunday two years ago. According to the complaint, the two became fast friends. The syndicate that runs out Rodeheaves' tours is a Chicago concern, and when he was not traveling about the country he spent much of his time in the girl's company.

"My lawyers," said the girl today, "tell me there never has been a case in Chicago in which a girl was more entitled to damages. He posed as an evangelistic singer devoted to his church, but has shown himself to be censurable in his mode of living and his intentions."

The AMERICAN goes into more homes than all the other evening papers of Boston combined. It is the Quality newspaper.

AGED MAINE BANKER RELEASED FROM JAIL

ALFRED, Me., May 14.—Richmond H. Ingersoll, former treasurer of the York County Savings Bank of Biddeford, has been released from the county jail, where he had served one year and four months of a two-year sentence for embezzlement of bank funds. He was pardoned by vote of the Governor and Council last Friday, his health being one of the reasons for the act. Mr. Ingersoll is over seventy years of age and had been treasurer of the bank for half a century.

GETTING GRAY?

How to Restore Youthful Color of Your Hair.

There is no longer any need of being ashamed of gray or faded hair and feeling that you look older than you really are.

Science has found a simple and easy way to quickly restore the natural color of the hair. Anyone can use the Queen Gray Hair Restorer, a liquid preparation that gives any desired shade from the one package, leaving the hair soft and fluffy and making a lasting color that is not sticky and does not rub off.

The Queen Gray Hair Restorer does its work so quickly and easily that it is used and sold by the best hair dressers. But one application is needed to restore the natural color of your hair. There are two sizes, One and $1.00. Sold by Houghton & Dutton and Bike-Jones Drug Co. and the leading drug and department stores throughout the country.

MARY JOHNSTON SAYS WAR HALTED MARCH OF WOMEN

In giving a history of the suffrage movement in the South, Miss Mary Johnston, the novelist, who has been passing a few days in Boston, says: "Suffrage had begun to flourish in the South before the Civil War, but after the struggle nothing was heard of it until three years ago, when a society was formed in Virginia. Lately the movement has taken on such momentum nothing can stop it until there is universal suffrage in the South. The society in Virginia has grown from a mere handful to 600 members. In Kentucky and Maryland it is equally strong, and societies are springing up in every Southern State."

BUSINESS MEN TO GET PUPILS PLACES

The Roxbury League for Children's Welfare has agreed, it was announced today, to co-operate with the Boston Chamber of Commerce in finding congenial employment for high school graduates under the plan of vocational direction which the School Board has decided to adopt. The chamber, through Herman Dillingham, secretary for the Retail Association, has asked the School Committee for the names of 600 graduates for whom employment might be found. The Roxbury League will follow the graduates in their positions.

COMMENCE DARROW JURY TAMPERING TRIAL TOMORROW

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 14.—Clarence S. Darrow, the Chicago lawyer, who is charged with tampering with the jury in the McNamara dynamiting case, while he was chief counsel for the McNamara brothers, will be placed on trial tomorrow. Mr. Darrow is anxious to have the trial commence.

The prosecution has subpoenaed forty local witnesses and completed other arrangements. Mr. Darrow will call about thirty witnesses.

Judge George H. Hutton will preside. Outside of newspaper men only fifty-one spectators will be allowed in the courtroom, as there is only seating capacity for that number.

FOR SICK HEADACHE, SOUR STOMACH, LAZY LIVER OR SLUGGISH BOWELS

Turn the rascals out—the headache, the biliousness, the indigestion, the sick, sour stomach and foul gases—turn them out tonight and keep them out with Cascarets.

Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never know the misery caused by a lazy liver, clogged bowels or an upset stomach.

Don't put in another day of distress. Let Cascarets cleanse and regulate your stomach; remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and that misery-making gas; take the excess bile from your liver and carry off the decomposed waste matter and poison from the intestines and bowels. Then you will feel great.

A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box means a clear head and cheerfulness for months. Don't forget the children—their insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

MEXICAN REBELS LOSE 1500 MEN

TORREON, Mex., May 14.—That the defeat of General Orozco's insurrectionary army was far more severe than first reported is the intelligence conveyed in advices from the federal front received today.

More than 1,500 rebels, principally from the column under General Salazar, were killed, wounded or captured in an engagement in the Canon of Carmen, where the insurgents were taken by surprise. General Salazar's command was virtually cut to pieces, only about 500 of his original detachment of 2,000 men escaping from the trap into which they marched.

General Salazar's troops had started from Sierra Mojada to flank the federals under General Rivera. The insurgents found little difficulty in taking the town of Cuatro Ciengas and pushed on. General Trucy Aubert's government army was known to be in the vicinity, but the exact whereabouts was not reported. Aubert was nearer than the rebels dreamed. While traversing the narrow defile known as Carmen the federal column under General Aubert suddenly appeared, supported by several batteries of rapid-fire guns. Thrown into panic the rebels huddled together beneath the fire and were mowed down in heaps.

The remnants of the rebel band fled in panic, throwing away their arms in order to make better speed. Pursued by the federals they set out for Oronzco's main column. Their path lay over a burning desert that furnished neither food nor water for man or beast.

TALK BY WIRELESS 160 MILES APART

LONDON, May 14.—A dispatch from Rome says for about a year the Italian naval and military authorities have been carrying on experiments in wireless telephony. A month ago a message was sent from the wireless station on Monte Mario to the island of Ponza, a distance of about sixty-five miles. Further experiments produced an improved method of transmission, and last week communication was established between Monte Mario and the wireless station at Brecio 10 Vola on Magdalena island, a distance of about 160 miles. The voices were distinct, so much so a listener detected immediately the substitution of a different speaker.

There will be eleven decks and she will be fitted in the most luxurious style. The Imperator will accommodate 5,000 passengers.

POWDER MILL BLOWS UP TWICE IN A WEEK

HAZARDVILLE, May 14.—Wheel Mill No. 3 of the Dupont Powder Company was demolished at 8:30 o'clock last evening. Two workmen had left the mill but a short time after leaving a charge, and the wheels had turned but a few times when the explosion occurred. Yesterday's rain had left it in a soused condition and the flames did not spread. This is the second time that has occurred in the plant in a week. Until last week the plant had not experienced a blow in eleven years.

Miss Crothers Defends Boston Men

Old Maidish? A Little Rude, That's All

Women Are Really More Conservative, She Declares; the Men Are Frequently Misjudged.

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT

It takes a pretty girl to find out what men really are, and if Miss Nellie Crothers doesn't come under that head I don't know who does. Miss Crothers is a New York girl and has been in Boston the past year studying at the School of Expression. She recently made a decided hit when she appeared at Haynes Hall in a delightful little play, "Who Are You?"

To the question "Do you think Boston men are old-maidish?" she opened wider her beautiful blue eyes and exclaimed:

"Oh, no indeed. I don't think you could ever say that about the Boston men. They may be considered a little rude at times and lacking in finish for representatives of a city which the world outside seems to consider the acme of perfection in all things.

"I think men are pretty much alike all over the world and I'm their best little champion. I think the Boston men are more conservative than the men of other cities, and they may be more self-centred and not so chivalrous where women are concerned, but their hearts are all right.

WOMEN MORE CONSERVATIVE.

"They're generous—but not indiscriminately so, and I'm sure where real chivalry is demanded they'd be first among those present.

"Just imagine the Boston men you know on board the Titanic when she was sinking. Can you imagine any of them trying to push the women aside and scrambling into the lifeboats first? I should say not—rather they would be the ones to take command of the situation and to demand the honorable and chivalrous treatment of the women. They're really a fine lot and I like them.

"I think the Boston women are more conservative than the Boston men. I suppose the lack of courtesy among the men is due to the strenuous lives they lead, for I imagine they have to make a harder fight for a living in Boston than in any of the other large cities of the country.

"I think that if a woman were really in need of a friend that she'd find the Boston men more ready to come to her aid and less susticious than men of other cities. They're true blue—that's what I think.

DEFENDS BOSTON MEN.

"It really isn't, after all, the little parlor tricks that are often called chivalrous that make the real man, it's the heart that counts. The heart of the average Boston man seems to be in the right place.

"I think they're too big and broad to bother about cultivating the little parlor tricks and niceties that characterize so many of the men of the South. They have bigger things to occupy them and when the occasion demands they're the most truly chivalrous lot in the world.

"The occasion proves the man, and you can't really say that Boston men are old-maidish and lacking in chivalry and all the other horrid things that have been said of them until they're dizzy.

"You can't judge a great deal about a man by just seeing him walk down the street. You have to really know the men of Boston in order to appreciate them.

"They're not the easiest people in the world to really get to know and that is why I presume they are so terribly misjudged.

"People think they're all those horrid things just because they don't really know them."

Women Strikers Will Defy Police

Mrs. Conboy, Leader, Says They Will March Tonight in Spite of Order Against Parade.

"We'll be on picket parade with an American flag at the head of our line of march tonight. There will be fully 100 of the most prominent labor men in the State with us. As free-born American citizens we have the constitutional right of peaceful assembly and peaceful picketing, police orders or no police orders."

Mrs. Sara A. Conboy, leader of the strike at the Roxbury Carpet Mills, declared April 8, issued this challenge today when informed no more parades of strikers would be permitted. She admitted she had been advised by the police not to hold the usual evening parade, and said she anticipated arrest. Following a parade of 115 women strikers last evening, a procession that attracted a thousand spectators and forty policemen to maintain order, the strike leaders arranged for every striker agent in the city to assist in holding picket duty at the mills tonight.

Lady Rothes Leaves Chicago in Disgust

Women Use Rouge so She Shakes Dust of City From Her Feet.

CHICAGO, May 14.—Lord and Lady Rothes were so disgusted with Chicago that they abruptly terminated a visit here and proceeded to Pasadena, Cal., where they will visit friends for a month or more. Lord Rothes thought the city was "beastly" and Lady Rothes, who was rescued from the Titanic, was shocked because Chicago women wear rouge.

"Chicago is a beastly place," said Lord Rothes disgustedly a few minutes prior to his departure. "Such a lot of noise and hustle, but not a bit of quiet. Where do the people rest?"

"Yes, and Chicago women use rouge to extravagantly," broke in the Countess. "In fact, I find that in New York, where I have had more experience, one is not considered in it, as one may say, unless she has a rosy complexion, however obtained."

SEARCH CRETIC FOR BLACK HAND

Special guards, immigration inspectors and police officers are stationed in every gangway of the White Star liner Cretic, on which she docked today, to prevent the escape of the stowaways, who it had been reported to Commissioner Billings are on board the ship. On her last trip, the Cretic brought twenty-eight stowaways, who were discovered by Inspector Hartland of the immigration service. Both he and Commissioner Billings had received black hand letters warning them not to interfere with the gangs on this trip.

Inspector Hartland is at home confined to his bed. The search of the ship will be made later today after all the passengers have been landed and passed by the immigration officers. Then the crew will be mustered on deck and after a roll call the ship will be searched from stem to stern.

The ship's officers declare that there are no stowaways on board this time.

Henry Clay Frick, the steel magnate, would have been a victim of the Titanic but for an accident, it was stated by L. L. Wipping of Pittsburg, who with his wife arrived on the Cretic from Naples.

Frick's Narrow Escape.

Mr. Frick was in Naples, and he and his wife had decided to return on the Titanic. A few days before the ship was to sail, however, a telegraph message came that necessary for him to remain in Naples and he cancelled his passage.

Another passenger on the Cretic was Captain D. H. Holmes, U. S. N., retired. Captain Holmes was navigating officer of the Baltimore at the battle of Manila Bay. He was also at one time in charge of the Boston hydrographic office. He and his wife reside now in Rome, but are in Boston for the Summer.

Among Undo, a fifteen-year-old first cabin passenger, was held by the immigration authorities when it was found she had traveled from Naples without her parents. She will be deported. The girl is a refined and well educated Italian girl and was to join her parents in this country.

Captain Lopez Must Answer.

Captain Lopez will appear before Commissioner Hayes to answer to a charge of bringing on his last trip fifteen more steerage passengers than the law allows and of not providing the required degree of segregation of unmarried women steerage passengers.

The Cretic brought 28 cabin and 826 steerage passengers, less than half of the capacity. Passengers were turned away and the regular call at the Azores was omitted, because of the fact that the ship had not been equipped with boats to accommodate a larger number.

BIG RUBBER MEN INDICTED

Warren B. Wheeler and Sidney Shaw, two of the firm of Wheeler & Shaw, incorporated, and of the North American Rubber Company, and H. Alden White, who were indicted by the Federal grand jury charged in thirty-three counts with using the mails to defraud according to a secret indictment returned last night and opened today. The men will be arraigned to give bail next Monday.

Several friends alleged to attempts to get shoes of the North American Rubber Company through the mails.

Wheeler and Shaw are arrested a few days ago on a similar complaint and were released in $5000 bail each. Their case is pending. Fifty more indictments are expected. Assistant Attorney General Wickersham and Assistant Attorney Sanford Jerome Cohen appeared before the grand jury. They will present the case to the grand jury tomorrow.

The Boston Rubber Company, a Maine corporation, was organized as a selling agency for the Maine factories. Wheeler and Shaw were elected directors. They were operating the business of the Boston company. The Boston company was capitalized at $1,000,000 and had a paid in capital of $500,000. Wheeler and Shaw are charged with having issued $1,000,000 worth of stock, and that $500,000 worth of the stock was issued without any consideration. The Boston company was organized in 1910 and the Maine company in 1911.

"ROOSEVELT A DANGEROUS EGOTIST, A DEMAGOGUE," SAYS TAFT

Mr. Roosevelt is an intense and dangerous egotist, a flatterer and a demagogue, and there will be but little hope for the future of this nation if Mr. Roosevelt were wafted to the skies in a chariot like the prophet of old and there was no one left to do the job Mr. Roosevelt says the country needs him to do. It's I, I, I, all the time with him.

I hold that that man is a demagogue and a flatterer who comes out and tells the people they know it all. Do you think that Abraham Lincoln, to whom Mr. Roosevelt so often refers, and to whom he likes to compare himself, and to whom he bears less resemblance than anyone I know in the history of this country, would have acted as he has and misrepresented me as he has?—President Taft at Cambridge, Ohio.

of the leaders—as well as their duty—to identify themselves with the winning candidate."

While the claim were gathering, Chairman John E. Jameson of the State Committee announced a committee on resolutions and called its members together.

For this important committee were selected Clarence E. Carr of Andover, the candidate for Governor in 1908 and 1910; Bank Commissioner Richard M. Scammon of Stratham, Mayor Paul Laborte of Somersworth, Napoleon J. Dyer of Laconia, Senator James M. Gerry of Madison, Mayor William H. Barry of Nashua, former Mayor George H. Eames of Keene, Frank O. Chellis of Newport, Representative Raymond B. Stevens of Lonsdale and Mayor Daniel J. Daley of Berlin.

TAFT DENOUNCES COL. ROOSEVELT AS AN EGOTIST

STEUBENVILLE, O., May 14.—President Taft, in his campaign tour of Ohio, bitterly denounced Colonel Roosevelt as an intense and dangerous egotist, a flatterer and a demagogue. The President's speeches were filled with indignant attacks on the Colonel, and he used most uncomplimentary adjectives in denouncing his rival for the Presidential nomination.

At Cambridge President Taft held Roosevelt up to ridicule and suggested that there would be little hope for the future of this nation if Mr. Roosevelt were wafted to the skies in a chariot like the prophet of old, and there was no one left to do the job Mr. Roosevelt said the country needs him to do.

"Your supposse there was not anybody in the country to do this job that Mr. Roosevelt talks about but himself, shouted the President at one point. "It's I, I, I, all the time with him.

"Suppose you feed that egotism and vanity and put him in office with a sense of power and a disregard of constitutional restrictions, it would be dangerous for this country.

"I hold that that man is a demagogue and a flatterer, who comes out and tells the people they know it all. I hate a flatterer. I like a man to tell me the truth straight out and I hate to see a man try to beat-fogle the people by telling them something he doesn't believe.

TAFT FEARS LOSS OF G. O. P. NATIONAL COMMITTEE BACKING

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The growing belligerency of the members of the National Committee to save their own scalps and let Taft look out for himself is worrying the President's few loyal friends more than the trouble that Colonel Roosevelt is making in Ohio.

If Taft could keep his grip on the committee it might still have a chance. But most of the committeemen have got to decide within the next three weeks, between Taft and the people to whom they must look for political resuscitation at the next election. Nobody believes that they will decide in favor of Taft.

Take the case of Penrose of Pennsylvania, Crane of Massachusetts, and Lodge of Illinois. All are for Taft, but all recognize in the counties states which they represent that Roosevelt with what amounts to unanimity. If these men go into the committee at Chicago and vote to hurl into Wilson avenue the contesting Roosevelt delegates they are dying into the face of the voters in their States. And to the voters they must go next Fall to ask to be put back in the places which the best sensitive they picked Taft as the right man to back.

All these three gentlemen and all other committeemen from Roosevelt States are intensely practical. None of them cares the snap of his finger for Taft personally. When they get into committee therefore it is a very bad bet that because of loyalty to the candidacy of Taft who has led them to defeat they are going to endanger their political necks a second time.

It is for this reason that Taft's lead in the National Committee does not amount to so much as the figure would indicate. There are almost thirty-eight ostensible Taft votes in the committee now, and reporters for Roosevelt and LaFollette. But of the thirty-eight the committeemen from Illinois, Maine, Massachusetts, Kansas, Nebraska, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Minnesota, Missouri, Ohio, Rhode Island, Virginia, Oregon, Washington and possibly California and Utah will be representing Roosevelt constituencies.

HARMON OPENS FIRE ON BRYAN AS HE BEGINS CAMPAIGN

WOOSTER, O., May 14.—Opening fire on W. J. Bryan in reply to the attacks made on him, Governor Judson Harmon of Ohio has started his campaign in Ohio for the Presidential nomination. The Governor said that the watchword adopted for the gubernatorial campaign was "Harmon or the made good."

"But there were some who thought I had made too good," continued Mr. Harmon, "and to state off political bankruptcy from a bipartisan combination I had to beaten. The Commoner is leading, and was secured and three separate circulars sent out filled with falsehood denunciation. They bore Mr. Bryan's picture and urged all friends to vote again me. Defeat my re-election would make me the candidate for President.

"I was re-elected by more than 100,000 majority. Colonel Roosevelt and most of the Cabinet came into the State to oppose me.

"Now my opponents have brought Mr. Bryan and carried him around the State. He was reliably informed of the character and motives of the moving spirits in this rule of rule movement, but seems not to care.

"Now, as to Mr. Bryan. What has caused the change in his attitude toward me? "He says I am not a progressive but a reactionary. This unreal calling names, the last resort in a poor cause, 'progressiveness' means sincere and successful efforts to secure practical reforms in government instead of mere talk, where has so much been accomplished as in Ohio during my administration?

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., May 14.—To make a second bid for the ten delegates from South Dakota to the national convention, Theodore Roosevelt is coming. He will make a flying visit June 1, spending that day in this city. It is believed that Taft and La Follette also will visit the State. The State primaries will be held June 4.

BALTIMORE, May 14.—The Taft and Roosevelt leaders have agreed to split even on Maryland's delegation to the Republican national convention. Each side will have two delegates-at-large and eight district delegates elected in all. The delegation will be instructed to vote for Colonel Roosevelt for President as long as he has any possible chance of receiving the nomination. At the State convention today a Roosevelt man was chosen temporary chairman and a Taft man permanent chairman.

WOMEN VOTING IN CALIFORNIA

SAN FRANCISCO, May 14.—With interest at fever heat in all sections of the State on California's first presidential primaries were held today. The contest was also the first general election in which the women of the State have voted. The supporters of Taft, Roosevelt, La Follette, Clark and Wilson were urging voters to the polls. Few campaigns in this State have been attended by such keen interest. Women have taken an active part and they will vastly increase the size of the vote.

The Democratic campaign between Champ Clark and Woodrow Wilson has been spectacular. Disinterested forecasters today predicted that Clark would carry the State in spite of Wilson's carefully perfected organization. Interest on the Republican side was heightened by the switch of Governor Johnson from Senator La Follette to Roosevelt. The fight between the Taft and Roosevelt forces has been bitter during the entire campaign. There are the forecasts coming from the various headquarters.

"Roosevelt will carry the State by a plurality not less than 15,000 and by a majority of not less than 8,000," said John W. Stetson, president of the Roosevelt League. "President Taft will carry California by a very handsome majority." Colonel Charles Mirth Hammond, manager of the Taft campaign.

Late advices coming from all sections confirm our prediction that Champ Clark will carry every county in the State."—R. H. Dewitt, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee.

No statement came from Woodrow Wilson's managers.

MENOMINEE FINDS ICEBERGS FAR SOUTH

The Red Star liner Menominee docked today from Antwerp, a day late as a result of having taken an extreme southern course. She reported passing several small bergs in latitude 39.5, and one giant mass of ice a thousand feet long, fifty feet high and with pinnacles towering still higher. This was about in the same latitude as Baltimore. The presence of ice so far south is unusual, according to Captain Amhsen.

BLANCHE BROOKS, ON COMMITTEE FOR SOMERVILLE DANCE

MISS BLANCHE BROOKS

One hundred and twenty-five couples attended the senior ball of the Somerville High School at Anthoine Hall last night. The class will have 316 graduates. On the patrons were the matrons and patrons, Dr. and Mrs. George L. Baxter and Headmaster and Mrs. John A. Avery. For almost forty years Dr. Baxter was headmaster of the Somerville High and Latin High Schools. He retired shortly before the two were consolidated.

The committee consisted of Miss Elizabeth Burns, Miss Hazel Batchelder, Miss Blanche Brooks, Carl Pitman, Edgar Kauda, Donald McIntire, Arthur Illey, Chester Byron and Harold M. Jones.

TAFT CROSSES T. R.'S SCHEDULE

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., May 14.—President Taft left a string of accusations through the State for Colonel Roosevelt who followed in his wake to answer. This was the big day on the political circuit in Ohio. The former president reached the State this morning and the battle was on. The first point where the Taft special crossed the Roosevelt battleline was at Steubenville.

Mr. Taft got on the ground here last night and in the midst of a circle of red fire said his piece, and left at 7:30 o'clock today, two hours and forty minutes before the Colonel was scheduled to arrive. At East Liverpool Mr. Taft was three hours ahead of the former President; at Alliance he was nearly six hours ahead. He was scheduled to reach Canton at noon, while Colonel Roosevelt will make Steubenville his night stop.

Late today the tables will be turned. The Taft special will follow Roosevelt into Warren at 6:15 p. m., three hours after the colonel has spoken there and the same difference of time will exist at Niles which Mr. Taft reaches at 6:55 p. m. At Youngstown where the President will hold his night meeting Roosevelt had a 2 o'clock engagement.

POLICE HUNTING CAMBRIDGE CHEAP COAL SWINDLER

A smooth, suave swindler, about thirty years old, who has been taking orders for coal at $3.50 a ton among the residents of Cambridgeport and demanding part payment in advance, is being sought today by the Cambridge police.

From reports filed at police headquarters he has obtained $23 from unsuspecting housewives, and visited two other houses where he failed to get any money, but cut the telephone wire at one when he saw the woman about to call her husband. The young man is well dressed in dark clothes, rides up in a red automobile and politely informs the unsuspecting wife that her husband has just given him an order for one or a number of tons of coal, and that he has to collect a part payment in advance.

DR. DRAGO MAY GIVE UP LECTURES

BUENOS AIRES, May 14.—D. Luis M. Drago, author of the much-discussed Drago doctrine opposing the employment of armed force by nations to collect private debts, is suffering from bronchitis and asthma and probably will not be able to deliver a series of lectures on international law in the United States as he proposed to do.

LEYLAND LINER NEAR TITANIC

LONDON, May 14.—The British government's inquiry into the Titanic disaster produced a sensational development today when testimony was produced to show that the Leyland line steamship California was within easy reach of the great White Star liner when she plunged to the bottom of the Atlantic off the Newfoundland coast on the morning of April 15.

The master of the Californian under oath, testified that he plainly saw lights which are believed to have been those of the doomed ship from the time she struck the berg until she settled beneath the waves. It was estimated that the Californian was from fifteen to thirty-two miles away from the Titanic when the latter sank—within easy range to have picked up practically every one on the ill-fated ship.

The Californian is thus identified in the minds of many as the "phantom ship" whose lights survivors saw from the life boats. Stanley Lord, master of the Californian told a story of the events of the night.

The fact that the Titanic's lights, after she had hit the iceberg, were seen by persons on board the Californian, was first brought out by the Boston AMERICAN through the story told by Ernest Gill, a deckeyman of the Californian. Gill made an affidavit to the fact that he had seen distress signals from the Titanic on the night of the disaster, but that no attempt was made until daylight to go to the rescue of the imperilled passengers and crew.

Gill went to Washington and there confronted Captain Stanley Lord of the Californian with his statements. Captain Lord admitted before the investigating committee that he had seen the lights referred to by Gill. At that time the Californian was in this port.

BOSTON SCHOONER ON FLORIDA REEF

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Battered by the heavy seas and beyond the reach of the coast life savers, the 2,200-ton schooner Paul Palmer of Boston is aground on Tennessee Reef, off the coast of Florida, while the revenue cutter Forward is speeding with all haste to her rescue. The Paul Palmer has been in the coal trade between New England and southern Atlantic coast ports. With a crew of twenty men she sailed the middle of last month from Portland. She touched at Newport News on the way down the coast.

MISS KILBORNE, WHO BECOMES BRIDE OF A MISSIONARY

A choir of twelve Wellesley College graduates, friends of the bride, sang at the bridal in Orange, N. J., of Miss Grace Allerton Kilborne, Wellesley, '10, who was married to the Rev. William Campbell Kerr of Corea, a missionary. The wedding took place in the Central Presbyterian Church of Orange.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Kilborne of No. 84 Hillyer street, East Orange. Among her college chums was Miss Marcia Kerr, sister of the missionary. Miss Kilborne met Mr. Kerr through his sister. Then Mr. Kerr went to Chai Ryung, Corea, as a missionary. Later Miss Kilborne, making a trip around the world, met Mr. Kerr in Corea. The acquaintance was renewed and a love match resulted.

The wedding ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. John H. Kerr, pastor of the Arlington Avenue Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn, father of the bridegroom. Assisting him were the Rev. Dr. John F. Patterson, pastor of the Orange church, and the Rev. John MacDowell of Newark. The choir of twelve young women who were friends of the bride at Welles'ey College, met the bridal party at the entrance to the church and sang a processional hymn, "Rejoice, Ye Pure in Heart." The young women were dressed in white, with black hats. The bride was given away by her father. Her attendant was her cousin, Miss Mary Allerton Kilborne, of Orange, and Mr. Benjamin Warfield Kerr was his brother's best man.

Members of the Wellesley choir were Misses Katharine Duffield, Alice Appenzellar, Beulah Bowen, Helen Bennett, Mary Humphrey, Mary Clark, Katherine Fauntleroy, Ruth Fletcher, Alice M. Favolo, Elizabeth Crane, Edith Craig and Margaret Webster. Miss Appenzeller is from Corea and the other members of the choir live in various parts of the United States.

The bride wore a gown of white charmeuse trimmed with Chinese lace and chiffon. Her bridal veil was caught up with orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. The Rev. Mr. Kerr and his bride will leave for Corea on August 1.

BRANDT CARRIES CASE HIGHER

NEW YORK, May 14.—Notice of appeal was today served on the Appellate Division, District Attorney Whitman and District Attorney Hogue of Clinton County by Attorney Joseph W. Bryan in behalf of Emile E. Brodt. By the appeal Brandt's counsel takes to the Court of Appeals the decision of the Appellate Division reversing the order by which Justice Gerard released Brandy from Dannemora prison on a writ of habeas corpus.

TAUNTON OFFICIAL ADMITS FORGERY

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 14.—Pleading guilty to the charge of forgery and then retracting it, Frederick H. Carpenter, city forester of Taunton, curator of the Bristol County Academy of Science, was arraigned in the District Court today charged with forgery. When his name was called and the charge read Carpenter looked around the courtroom, turned to the clerk and said, "Guilty." Before the clerk could enter the plea Carpenter said: "No, I waive examination." He was held for the grand jury in $2,000.

Carpenter is charged with cashing a forged order for $450 at the Rhode Island Hospital Trust Company in Providence on March 29.

"Woman's Brain Will Never Equal Man's"

It's Smaller, So Dr. Spitzka Reasons That Its Capacity Must, Therefore, Be Less.

PHILADELPHIA, May 14.—Dr. Edward Anthony Spitzka, the famous brain expert, after having made a minute examination of hundreds of human brains, declares that women, as a sex, never will be the equal of man in abstract mental conception.

"In the female brain," said Dr. Spitzka, "the convolutions are broader and of simpler type than in the male brain. Compared with the male brain, the female brain is usually characterized by a smaller frontal lobe. The frontal lobe is concerning most with the abstract concept, and therefore, in the light of my measurements, it would seem that in the male it is possessed of greater capacity for abstract conception.

"Each sex has its own part to play, and both differences would be expressive of physiological sexual differences. In the female the percentage of frontal are is less than the posterior are. In the male the percentage is about equal. An examination shows no other difference except that the brain of the female is smaller, which may be influenced by the fact that the female frame is smaller.

"While no one will dispute the fact that the individual woman may excel the average man, it is a fact that to the male the brains of women are smaller and less richly and less completely fissured."

BIG CALL FOR BRADY PICTURES

Section signs of the famous $150,000 government collection of Brady War Pictures, which is being distributed this week, has met with the same enthusiastic reception that has marked the distribution of the other sections.

From every part of New England applications are pouring into the AMERICAN office for copies of this section. Thousands of copies of the Brady-Loesing War Book, containing the Brady pictures, are going into the homes of war veterans, sons of war veterans and the general public of New England.

The AMERICAN has arranged for the manufacture of suitable covers. They are of cloth and of half morocco. Because of the large quantity ordered the AMERICAN has been able to secure them at a nominal figure, and they will be distributed at cost. No advertising of any kind appears on the covers. No coupons are required. The prices of these covers are:

Cloth, twenty-five cents.

Half morocco leather, fifty cents.

The distribution of these famous war pictures, as illustrations to Loesing's History of the Civil War, is the most distinctive piece of newspaper enterprise in years, and only by special arrangement with the War Department has the AMERICAN been enabled to put the collection in the hands of the public, at a price that is comparatively nominal.

The first eight sections are now ready for distribution. For full details as to how to obtain the pictures see next Sunday's AMERICAN.

Town Threatened by 12-Mile River Break

People of Moreauville, La., Flee From Most Serious Breach in Lower Mississippi.

MOREAUVILLE, La., May 14.—A twelve-mile break occurred in the Mississippi River near here early today, threatening the town with destruction. The break is the worst in the history of the lower Mississippi. All the residents of the town save two municipal officials and two telegraph operators have fled.

NEW ORLEANS, May 14.—According to a report which reached here early today, two men caught boating in the flooded district north of the city were drowned last night. Efforts to confirm this report were fruitless because of the interrupted communication. It is known, however, that in several sections the planters have organized vigilance committees to protect their families and property. There has been a marked betterment of flood conditions during the last twenty-four hours, and the government engineers believe that the worst is over unless a heavy rain falls.

CRASH HURTS 4 IN SPRINGFIELD

SPRINGFIELD, May 14.—Four stone masons were seriously hurt, two probably fatally, when a terra cotta cornice sixty feet up on the new City Hall gave way at 11 o'clock today and fell with a fearful crash into a narrow space below.

The injured:

Edward McCaugh, No. 62 Pearl street, three ribs broken, spine hurt, internal injuries, probably fatal.

John F. Haggerty, No. 684 Liberty street, right arm broken, internal injuries.

Alton Drake, Mattoon street, head cut, shoulder bruised.

Arthur Lamoth, head and shoulders terribly crushed.

The cornice was examined it is thought, by inspectors some time ago and pronounced unsafe. An investigation will be made by Public Safety Director Frank Chamberlain, building commissioner of the group of new municipal buildings whose tower was dismantled. The McNamara outrages. The falling terra cotta, followed no stone of the injured men, spread consternation among the number dynamite outrage had been perpetrated.

Cohan's Rollicking Show Comes Back to Boston

"Forty-five Minutes from Broadway" Full of Dancing, Action and Fun.

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

Whatever else may be said of George M. Cohan's dramatic outputs, it may never be charged that they wither up and die on your hands. To spend an evening with Mr. Cohan and one of his own musical plays is at least a positive guarantee that you will stay awake and hear things.

It was that way at the Colonial last evening, when Mr. Cohan dropped in with "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway," just to make known probably that he can make as much out of Kid Burns as Victor Moore did a few years ago when the piece was new. Mr. Cohan carried his point—by a large majority—if you can accept his audience as proof. This young man who writes plays and music, and then acts them out himself, was very much at home at the Colonial.

The revival of an old play is a ticklish business procedure, upon rare occasions, but Mr. Cohan appears to have ranged his public safely. At any rate "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway" might have been as fresh as the season's latest success so far as you could tell from outward signs, and from an encouraging audience that was hungry for everything Mr. Cohan had to offer.

It has been said that the Cohan musical play depends largely upon its feet for success, and those who were present at last evening's festivities can now believe it. There were exhilarating moments in which the hard working chorus looked like Marathon runners on Patriots' Day. There was no lidlessness in any part of the proceedings. Songs were sung and races were run—it was a rollicking night.

The chief centre of interest, of course, was Mr. Cohan's idea of Kid Burns. Inasmuch as he wrote the play it is to be assumed that his interpretation of the role met every requirement set down by the author—certainly no one in the audience complained. Mr. Cohan's own style of comedy fitted naturally into his evening's task. There was good humor in his sentimental flights over Mary; there was riotous laughter over his sharply-pointed slang, and there was melody that went straight to your ears.

Mr. Cohan is more than a musical comedy comedian—he is an actor, with an actor's sense of portions. While "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway" runs through every dramatic sensation on the calendar, slipping gracefully from farce to melodrama and back again, Mr. Cohan never lets his audience feel that he was anyone but Kid Burns. He looked easy from the upholstered side of the footlights, but there was more than two dollars' worth of entertainment in the performance.

The Mary of Miss Sallie Fisher was easy to look upon and sweet to hear, for she sang her two songs like a singer who knows how. Miss Fisher gave a touch of beauty to the performance that helped make the evening agreeable.

A Cohan musical play without a gentleman-villain would be suspiciously unnatural, so we had George Parsons doing the honors in that respect. He managed very well. Lawrence Wheat, as the young millionaire, looked the part, which is saying a good deal in these days of flimsy musical plays.

Mr. Cohan will find his week at the Colonial filled with more than ordinary success. While his offering may be a little old it has entertaining qualities that have endured through several seasons of stock productions, and are still worth the price of two dollars.

Can any seeker after entertainment demand more?

Plays That Remain.

The final week of Frances Starr in "The Case of Becky" will begin at the Hollis Street Theatre tomorrow evening. The play is based on the Jekyll and Hyde idea. "Hanky Panky" remains at the Shubert, where constantly increasing patronage indicates that it is the proper entertainment for the tired business man.

"Alias Jimmy Valentine" still holds attention at the Plymouth Theatre. H. B. Warner, as the gentleman burglar, gives a capital performance.

"The Spring Maid," with Christie MacDonald, is drawing lovers of light opera to the Tremont Theatre.

Julian Eltinge and "The Fascinating Widow" are setting new records in attendance at the Boston Theatre.

"Seven Days" began its second week at the Castle Square Theatre last evening. It is a rollicking farce.

Ideal Homes Show.

The final week of the Ideal Homes Exposition in Mechanics Building was begun yesterday. This exhibition has many novel exhibits and is attracting the attention of those interested in home building.

Hub Theatre.

Lewis' monkey and dog circus contributed an attractive number to the bill at the Hub Theatre yesterday. There were a half dozen other vaudeville features.

National Theatre.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thorne made themselves solid with the audiences at the National Theatre yesterday. Their sketch, "An Up-Town Flat," was all that could be desired in comedy. Another spirited feature was supplied by the International polo teams, who engaged in a lively contest.

LIVELY BILL AT KEITH'S THEATRE

SALLIE FISHER AND GEORGE M. COHAN IN SCENE FROM PLAY NOW AT COLONIAL

Zelda Sears, in a pleasing and lively dramatic sketch, "The Wardrobe Woman," leads the bill this week at Keith's. It is a one-act piece and deals with a story and a real life tragedy of the stage. In a way back New England town, a road company is to give a show; the country-side had been idled; the reubens are crowded into the small hall; the orchestra, of three pieces, is tuning up, when the horrible discovery is made that the young manager of the company has skipped away with the box office receipts. They amounted to but $19, but that was some.

The scene of the sketch is laid in the improvised wardrobe-room of the country theatre, and gives Miss Sears an excellent opportunity of quaint characterization, which she improves. As the garrulous mistress of the wardrobes of the barn-storming company, and with much to say of the absconding manager, many clever bits of humor were brought into what was altogether a very clever sketch. Walter Young as the property man of the stranded company, Walter Regan as the "juvenile man," Beatrice Belmont as the "ingenue," and Margaret Armstrong as the "heavy woman," all contributed to delighting the audience. There is not a dull moment in the clever sketch.

In the bill surrounding Miss Sears are the Big City Four, the sweet singers of vaudeville—Rover, Bailey, Emerson and Nelson—who were recalled time after time. Two Boston favorites, Jack Connolley and Margaret Webb, appear in a musical absurdity, "A Stormy Finish." Including in the bill for the week are Trovato, the Philippine violinist, in a medley of popular and classical airs; the Charles Ahearn troupe of cycling comedians; Belle Adair, here for her first time in original songs; the Pendleton Sisters in unique dances; and Guy J. Sampson and Edith Reilly, the fusalon plate entertainers. The last number on the bill before the up-to-date pictures are the Aeroplane Ladies in a singing and dancing specialty, in which a model of an airship is utilized.

RAINEY AFRICAN HUNT FILMS PROVE OF BIG INTEREST

Boston theatregoers were treated to something new in the art of moving pictures at the Park Theatre, when the pictures of the Paul Rainey African Hunt were shown in this city for the first time.

Interest especially centred in the water hole film, where hundreds of different animals were shown, drinking to their hearts' content. John C. Hemmett, spent seventy-two hours in completing this picture, eating his meals in a tree, fearing if he came down that the film would be spoiled.

Mr. Rainey was accompanied on his great hunting expedition by Professor Heller of the Smithsonian Institute, Allen Black, Augustus Ourram, Dr. William Johnson, John C. Hemmett, the photographer, and 300 black men of different tribes.

The Lion Hunt was also interesting. Mr. Hemmett suggested a rock be thrown at the beast. This was done and the lion charged straight at the camera. Mr. Rainey then shot him in the breast, but it took no apparent effect. Mr. Black shot the lion in the brain, but it still kept on and in two leaps landed but forty inches from the camera.

Gaiety Theatre.

Harry Hastings' "Big Show" began a week of lively burlesque at the Gaiety Theatre yesterday. Like most entertainments of its kind, it was made up chiefly of comedy and girls, with the latter getting a little the best of it. The music was easy to absorb.

Globe Theatre.

In the new vaudeville bill at the Globe yesterday the Flying Mills occupied the centre of the stage. These aerial performers proved themselves daring in many ways. Others on the bill were Muller and Mulier, Joe Edmonds, Doyle and Miller and a half dozen equally lively people.

Gordon's Olympia.

The second week of the new Gordon's Olympia started merrily yesterday with a new list of vaudeville features and a long list of motion pictures of all varieties. Among the vaudeville numbers were Nan Curtiss and company, Weber and Wilson and Anderson and Golines.

FIRST IN SERIES OF WAGNER NIGHTS IS GIVEN AT THE POPS

The attention of "The Pops" audience was turned to Richard Wagner. It was the first of the series of Wagner nights and if a person wanted to be quite romantic it fair he ordered his beer by the stein instead of by the bottle.

The Wagnerian pieces included the "Lohengrin Prelude," "Overture Tannhauser," "Funeral March from Dusk of the Gods," and the "Ride of the Valkyries." Mr. Strobe conducted these ponderous and inspiring numbers in highly creditable fashion.

In lighter vein were the ever verdant "Overture Masaniello" of Auber, Lehar's "Gypsy Love" and Verdi's "La Traviata" selections. Meyerbeer's "Coronation March" and Flotow's "Overture Stradella" rounded out the program. To conclude came Strube's "Boston 1915 March," composed two years ago, when the 1915 movement was particularly vociferous. 1915 is dead but the March is lively enough.

The following program will be given at the Pops this evening:

March, "Merry Soldiers," Sabathil; overture, "The Bronze Horse," Auber; suite, "Tale of Gold," Waldteufel; selection, "Mikado," Sullivan; selection, "Pagliacci," Leoncavallo; two entr'actes from "Carmen," Bizet; Hungarian rhapsody, in F, by Liszt; fire charm from "Die Walkure," Wagner; overture, "Orpheus," Offenbach; "The Rosary," Nevin; "The Enchanted Hour," Morton; selection, "The Siren," Fall; march, "Boccaccio," Suppe.

Tomorrow will be the first "College Night" of the season—Amherst.

Loew's Orpheum.

A new list of vaudeville entertainers and several timely and interesting motion pictures were presented at Loew's Orpheum Theatre yesterday.

Howard Athenaeum.

The Old Howard burlesquers remain for another week at the Howard Athenaeum. The program was changed yesterday somewhat, and several new vaudeville features were added.

Bowdoin Square Theatre.

Enoch, the man fish, was the principal attraction in the new bill at the Bowdoin Square Theatre yesterday. There were other numbers on the program.

Scenic Temple.

New vaudeville, several attractive motion pictures and Leuna Howe's orchestra made up the program at the Scenic Temple yesterday.

Next Week's Plays.

"The Thief" will be Lindsay Morison's offering at the Majestic Theatre next week.

"Nobody's Widow" will begin a week's engagement at the Castle Square Theatre next Monday.

BRIGHT COMEDY AT MAJESTIC

James Forbes' sparkling comedy, "The Commuters," which enjoyed a long run at the Park Theatre, was admirably presented at the Majestic by Lindsay Morrison's stock company yesterday. That this sterling play has lost none of its popularity was indicated by the size of the audience that turned out to welcome it again.

The performance last night was marked by the return of Mrs. George A. Hibbard, who was associated with the stock company the early part of last season. Mrs. Hibbard received an enthusiastic reception. As Mrs. Julia Stickney Crane, she handled the role of suffragette leader in admirable fashion. At the close of the second act she was presented with several bouquets.

The story of the early train-catching suburbanite and the mix-up which resulted from his forgetting that he had brought a bachelor friend home with him for night before, is rich in spontaneous humor as ever, and its possibilities are developed to the utmost by the handling of the players.

Henry Mortimer, as Lawrence Brice, the thoughtless but well-meaning husband, made an excellent impression. Mr. Elliot made a touching figure as the retund and careless bachelor friend of the lord of the suburban cottage, and was unfortunate in his efforts to adjust the trouble, of which he was the innocent cause.

A newcomer to Mr. Morison's company was Carl Benton Reed, who played the role of Hollister in admirable fashion. Mr. Stowe is not unknown to Boston audiences. He made his first appearance here twelve years ago in the cadet show "Mikey and the Musketeer." It was in this play that Julian Eltinge started his stage career.

Waldron's Casino.

"The Golden Crook Extravaganza" company was the rather alluring title of the new burlesque organization at the Casino yesterday. It was regular burlesque.

D. R. MEET AT VENDOME TODAY

The annual convention of the Daughters of the Revolution opened today with a meeting at the Vendome. Mrs. Adeline F. Fitz presided. The opening of the convention was preceded by a meeting of the credentials committee, and a meeting of delegates for the appointment of the nominating committee by States, with Mrs. Clarence L. Beakley of New York, first vice-president general, presiding.

An event of the annual convention is the banquet to be given this evening at the Algonquin Club. The arrangements are in charge of a committee, of which Mrs. William A. Jackson of Malden, State librarian D. R., is chairman, assisted by Mrs. George E. Smith, Mrs. Arthur H. Pray, Mrs. Albert F. Hayward, Mrs. John A. Heath, Mrs. Frederick H. Prescott, Mrs. R. Wells Dibble.

Preceding the banquet there will be a reception to the general officers, and the following will preside: Chapter regent, Mrs. Ewart Watkins; Mrs. H. W. Dibble, Miss Edith Evans, Miss Marion Murphy, Miss Grace T. Clark, Mrs. William Coppins, Miss Caroline Heath, Miss Mary Bartlett.

Tables, each seating eight guests, will be arranged about the hall, and the following will be hostesses at their respective tables: Mrs. George E. Smith, past regent of Massachusetts; Mrs. George E. Daniels, regent of Dorothy Q. Chapter; Mrs. Charles E. Langrish, regent of Jonas Gardner Chapter; Mrs. Franklin Smith, regent of Paul Revere Hall Chapter; Mrs. John B. Dalton, regent of General Rufus Putnam Chapter; Mrs. Charles Woodbury of Peter Faneuil Chapter; Mrs. W. H. Littlefield of Lynn, Miss Annie Symonds of Deliverance Munroe Chapter; Mrs. Daniel W. Sabborn of Martha Washington Chapter; Mrs. C. F. Abbott of Andover; Mrs. Fred M. Goss, Mrs. Catherine Dakin, Mrs. Frederick Prescott, Mrs. Arthur E. Pray, Mrs. A. F. Hayward, Mrs. H. W. Dibble, Mrs. Martin S. Anguis of the Lucia Knox Chapter, Miss Caroline Heath of Anne Bumstreet Chapter.

The address of welcome will be made by Adeline Prudence Fitz, president general D. R., and there will be addresses by the Reverend William Harman van Allen, Wilbur Fiske Gleason and Edwin S. Crandon, president Massachusetts S. A. R. Toasts will be given by Mrs. Blanche Brooks DuPuy of the New York society, Mrs. John F. Merrill of Massachusetts, Mrs. Adelia Roundy Woodham of the Minnesota society, Miss Charlotte Rogers of Massachusetts. The toast mistress will be Mrs. Caroline Putnam Heath of Massachusetts.

THIEVES STRANGLE NEW JERSEY WOMAN

SYRACUSE, N. J., May 14.—Mrs. Minnie Mack, wife of Charles Mack, a wealthy florist, was strangled to death today in her home here by burglars and her seventeen-year-old niece chloroformed. A quantity of clothing and jewelry was stolen. A safe containing a considerable sum of money resisted the robbers' attempt to open it. The police believe that the robbery and murder were committed by persons familiar with Mack's habits and the interior of his home. A terrible struggle occurred, the thieves were forced to strangle Mrs. Mack with towels and gag her with handkerchiefs which they found in the room.

WEYMOUTH MAN IS STRUCK BY TRAIN

Dennis F. O'Connor of North Weymouth was found unconscious with his right arm badly crushed on the railroad tracks between South Weymouth and South Braintree early today. He is in Massachusetts General Hospital and in a critical condition. O'Connor was struck by a train early in daylight and remained near the track until found by Michael Sullivan, a track repairer.

PASS DIRECT ELECTION BILL

WASHINGTON, May 14.—By a vote of 237 to 39 the House has passed the joint resolution declaring for an amendment to the Constitution providing for the direct election of United States senators. The resolution has already passed the Senate.

The President is without power to act on joint resolutions providing for constitutional amendments to be submitted to the States. The resolution goes directly to the States from the Secretary of State, who is also without discretion in the matter. The amendment thus initiated by Congress must be ratified by three-fourths of the State Legislatures before it becomes law.

A number of States have by resolution declared for the direct election of Senators. This action has no force, however.

The resolution, as modified by the Senate on motion of Senator Bristow, provides for Federal supervision of the Senatorial elections. This provision was opposed by members from the South, led by Representative Bartlett of Georgia, who held that Federal interference would lead to a return of carpet-bagging.

Fight Lasted Ten Years.

It was only after a stubborn resistance of ten years that the senate yielded to this reform, which has been advocated from the beginning by the AMERICAN.

When the House passed the resolution declaring for direct election, the Senate promptly amended it with the Federal supervision rider. It was the belief that this rider would kill its reception in the House, owing to opposition of members from the South.

However, the House was in no temper to block the passage of the resolution any longer, as far over-shadowing matters received shows.

Most of the State Legislatures meet next January, and they will probably act on the amendment as speedily as possible. In the cases of other States there will be no new Legislatures for another year, so it will be at least two years before the voters will choose United States Senators.

STORY OF AMERICAN'S FIGHT FOR THE DIRECT ELECTION OF SENATORS

NEW YORK, May 14.—The fight for the direct election of United States Senators by the people was begun by the New York American thirteen years ago and has been continued by the Boston AMERICAN since its birth in 1904. In the editorials of that time the demand was made that Congress submit the question to the Legislatures of the States.

In May of 1898 and again in April of 1900 resolutions providing for this method of procedure passed the House, but they never saw the light of day in the Senate.

The upper House of that time was composed of men who had to fight sympathy for the measure, and the committees to which the resolutions were referred smothered the question. There never was a report made for their report, and the bills were allowed to die in the hands of the men who had been throttling all attempts at popular elections. Some of them, Platt, Roe and others in the present Senate, talked about lowering the standard of the men in the upper House of Congress.

Mr. Hearst Puts in Amendment.

It was at the opening of Congress, March 4, 1903, that William Randolph Hearst, then representing the Ninth New York District, introduced a resolution demanding the submission of the question to the Legislatures of the various States a constitutional amendment providing for the direct election of Senators.

The fight did not end with Mr. Hearst's retirement from Congress. It was decided that if Congress would not act of its own initiative the people would bring to bear on those States solidly in favor of this reform by registering their convictions in the form of resolutions demanding a constitutional convention.

The fight was helped along by the election of men to the Senate who did not reflect the sentiment of the people and whose elections were either elected corruptly by political bosses and trusts, or whose positions were purchased by the use of money, as in the Lorimer case in Illinois.

In March, 1910, the fight appeared practically won. The resolution had passed the House and was in the Senate with strong friends backed in bringing it to vote. It had reached a stage where it was a question whether or not the most representing special interests would dare to stand up and be counted.

Stand-Patters Defeat Measure.

The Sixty-second Congress, that wound up its career on March 4, 1911, however, still held sufficient of the old stand-pat, non-progressive, reform-believe-in-the-people Senators to defeat the resolution needing before that body.

The resolution which bore Senator Borah's name lacked four votes of enough to give it a two-thirds majority as the Constitution requires.

Congress, which had been defiant so far as the upper House was concerned, saw a new light. All that was needed were thirty-one States to demand a constitutional convention, and Congress would have no voice in the matter.

Thirty States passed resolutions. The last of these was New York. One more State only was needed to act, and then Congress, instead of taking the initiative would have been placed in the position of having been whipped into line.

The friends of the measure in the Senate at the same time were fighting for a new Congress set. There had been a count of noses. New Senators, who were likely as progressives, differed as to the methods to follow, but from the beginning of the present session there was little doubt that Congress would act.

Senator Bristow of Kansas, introduced last year the resolution passed yesterday.

Massachusetts adds another to its list of motor car builders by the merging of the Springfield Metal Body Company and the Springfield Manufacturing Company, both of Springfield.

The plans include the manufacture of pleasure cars on a large scale and the manufacture of an Italian car, the S. P. A., for the American market and the turning out of bodies for the general trade. It is stated that a number of wealthy New Yorkers are back of the Brightwood Company and that the Orson car, which has been given a good deal of publicity as the "bonkers car," would be the model upon which the new pleasure cars are to be built, with lower prices as the result of increased production. The deal was consummated by C. O. Kilborn of Springfield.

New England, especially Massachusetts, with its fine roads, is not taking to the motorcycle like other sections of the country. For instance, at the Newark Velodrome Sunday 7,000 people turned out in the blowery weather to witness a series of motorcycle races.

The touring Club of America cautions the motorists to observe the Boston traffic regulations from Lake street to Norumbega Park, as the police are actively enforcing the law as to the blowing of horns and fast driving. There is generally a motorcycle policeman patrolling this road.

The roads from Boston to Lacoln, N. H., are reported to be very good, but north of Lacoln as far as Meredith they are bad.

GERTRUDE COBLEIGH, WHO MAY HAVE WED JAMES W. O'DONNELL

DID LYNN GIRL WED O'DONNELL?

Miss Gertrude M. Cobleigh, the nineteen-year-old Lynn orphan, and James W. O'Donnell, twenty-one years, an automobile salesman from the same city, are expected in Lynn tonight after an attempt to get married at Biddeford, Me.

The couple had motored down to Maine and at midnight Saturday aroused City Clerk Thomas F. Locke of Biddeford and requested him to issue a marriage license.

Even with this, they could not find a Catholic clergyman in the Maine city that would marry them.

Both are well known in Lynn, and when informed of the attempt to get married Mrs. Cobleigh, mother of the girl, said she was not surprised, as she suspected her daughter was contemplating becoming the wife of O'Donnell.

Whether they have been married yet or not is now a question that their many friends in Lynn are waiting to be answered by the appearance of the couple tonight.

"We did not elope," the young lovers told City Clerk Thomas F. Locke of Biddeford Saturday night when they went to his home and requested him to go to the City Hall and issue a marriage license.

"It was only to avoid publicity," the would-be bridegroom explained. "Our parents were willing that we should be man and wife. We thought that to avoid any notoriety we would come down to Maine in an automobile, get the license and rings, go to the parochial residence of some priest, get married and surprise our friends when we got back home."

Until a few weeks ago, when fire destroyed her offices, Miss Gertrude M. Cobleigh was a stenographer at No. 72 Market street, Lynn. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merlin E. Cobleigh of Milford, N. H.

EVERY TIRED LOOKING WOMAN

Wants to Know How to Avoid Appearing Old Before Her Time.

Some women always wear a worn, tired look. It is the outward sign of nervousness with its accompaniment of worry, headache and sleeplessness.

It is useless to tell some women to rest. Circumstances will not permit. But it is always possible to build up the strength to meet the strain.

Overwork seldom kills. Worry often does. If you would keep the worn look from your face strengthen your system with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and do not worry. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a blessing to women. They preserve the beauty that health alone can give, the youthful brightness of eye, the color in cheeks and lips that comes alone from rich, red blood.

Mrs. Philip H. Smart, of No. 125 Smith street, South Portland, Me., says: "While attending school I caught cold and suffered from weakness for about a year. I was all run down and did not have a particle of color. My parents thought I was going into consumption. I was short of breath and was subject to fainting spells. My limbs seemed to be all tired out and I had hardly enough strength to get around. My stomach was so weak that whatever I ate caused me a great deal of pain. My kidneys were affected and I kept growing weaker. I finally had to quit school. I did not improve much under the doctor's treatment of about six months and later gave Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. Soon I could see that I was gaining in flesh and strength. There was plenty of color in my cheeks. My appetite improved and I was cured. . . . I certainly think Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a wonderful remedy and cheerfully recommend them."

Get a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from your druggist today. Do not delay. Begin the treatment now. Write the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., and learn what the pills have accomplished in cases like your own. If you cannot get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills readily near home send fifty cents for one box or $2.50 for a half dozen, by mail, postpaid.

Two helpful booklets, "Building Up the Blood" and "Plain Talks to Women," giving more information about the remedy will be sent free to any address on request.

DEPORT FAMILY BACK TO RUSSIA

When the Franconia sailed from East Boston for Liverpool today she carried a broken-hearted family. It consisted of a father, mother and four children. It is expected that the mother—only thirty-two years old—will die before they reach their old home in Russia.

George Sinafer came to this country several months ago, went to Kansas and got work on a farm. Then he sent for his wife and children. The little ones are five, four and three years of age, and an infant.

The mother and children came over on the Cunard liner Ascania on March 5. When the vessel reached Portland, Me., it was thought one of the passengers had smallpox. They were all brought to Gallop's Island, Boston, where the wife found the supposed smallpox was chickenpox.

Mrs. Sinafer and her children were detained because she did not have sufficient money to get to Kansas. The children developed chickenpox. Then it was discovered that the mother had developed acute tuberculosis.

The husband came to Boston and found his wife very ill. The steamship people sent her to the State Hospital at Dewkesbury. It was finally decreed by the doctors that the woman could not live. She wanted to die in Russia. So today, she and the four children were deported. Her husband accompanied them, paying his own way.

Mt. Holyoke Juniors at Annual 'Top Spin'

College Girls Celebrate With Song and March; May Day Fete Tomorrow.

HOLYOKE, May 14.—The junior top-spinning was held at Mt. Holyoke college today to be followed by May Day festivities tomorrow.

For the top-spinning 168 juniors formed in double line at the rear of Williston dorm and marched toward the chapel and front. This gave the other classes first chance to see the top-spinning costumes, which had been kept secret. The costumes were white dress, aprons and sunbonnets of green and white, with decorations of daisies, the class flower. The line was led by the junior president, Mary Addis Crook of Danville, Ky., and the vice-president, Margaret J. Fassett of Oak Park, Ill.

As they marched the juniors sang:

We are the Lofty Juniors
In our costumes green and gay.
We're out for a merry, merry pastime
In the merry month of May.
Come, juniors, come, juniors,
And spin your tops today.

Members of the other classes had assembled meanwhile about the merry scene, where the juniors gathered. The sister class, the freshmen, sang to them from Chadsey and Spin Away Lily, to which the juniors responded with a new song. The top-spinning began in earnest then, and the green tops with white tops were evident for some days were managed with great skill, and in a short number of the juniors.

Tomorrow, May Day, festivities commence. The college musicale this afternoon and the Junior's organized play, The Sad Shepherd, Tennyson's, will be given in the Mariposa and crowning the May Queen will follow.

The Real Secret of Rejuvenating the Face

Since the discovery of facial rejuvenation, why not learned how to remove the skin with success so that they appear. It is a recent science and consequently. The aged, faded or discolored surfaces skin may be removed, leaving in an exquisite new and natural manner, by the use of a harmless, but powerful, mercolized wax. Within a week or two the injured skin will have entirely disappeared, but to behold, has taken the place of the discarded cuticle. A clear complexion of the face is absorbed each day, thus rejuvenating, and the skin is soft, velvety and beautiful. Nothing can be applied to the face while using mercolized wax, especially as this preparation is absorbed. For the purpose of this article, powdered saxolite, 1 oz., dissolved in 1 pint witch hazel. Bathing the face in the solution produces quick and wonderful results.

How I Make Customers

About a year ago I chanced to meet one of Boston's most influential public officials just as he was leaving his tailor, and a discussion arose as to the relative merits of tailors in general. During the conversation he told me he had just paid $90.00 for a Blue Serge Suit to wear away on his vacation, and although I knew he could afford it, I laughed, and to square myself I had to give him some facts on serges. I explained how many suits his tailor sold at that price, how much he paid for the goods he put into that suit, how much he paid for labor, how much he paid for cutting; then I explained my way of concentrating all the work of 17 stores under one roof. Then I told him that I could make as good a Blue Serge Suit for vacation purposes as his $90.00 suit for $9.00. Before I got through he came into my store and ordered one of my suits, as he said, "just to knock about in," and in a letter which is just at my hand he writes that he still has the Blue Serge of one year ago which I made for him, and the $20.00 suit has long been worn out, and when he returns from the trip he is now making, he wants me to make him several suits. This is only one of thousands of cases. Today I am dressing the most conservative people of this city, who were accustomed to pay the highest price for their clothes.

Now apply this to yourself, Mr. Reader. When you come in on the train, car or boat tomorrow, look around at the different styles of clothing you see; pick out the man you think the best dressed and you will find he wears a suit made by me.

BLUE SERGE

A Blue Serge made by me will be cut any style, single or double-breasted coat; the trousers cut 1 peg or regular, belt loops, stationary turnups if desired and it will fit and wear equal to a $90.00 suit, for 9.00

Homespuns, gray or brown, cut any style. I am making them either in regular or English styles, cut with patch pockets, and would be just such a suit as you might wear to the country or use on an automobile if you could afford to pay $90 for a suit, but for the average man this would make a fine Sunday suit at a price of 9.00

$40 Suits To Order 13.50

PURITAN SERGE

Considered by the American Woolen Company one of the most beautiful and distinctive serges made, and they are spending thousands of dollars to educate the fine trade in the United States to this particular cloth. Nearly every magazine in the country has a full page advertising it. The cloth is stamped every yard PURITAN SERGE. Sold by other tailors for $30 to $40 per suit. I will place this cloth on the outside corner of my doorway, where you can see and handle without solicitation, and, if you choose, get samples. My price, to order 13.50

RED SOX TOY WITH BROWNS

Just how the Red Sox can drop a game to the St. Louis Browns is a mystery. Perhaps, therefore, the Sox will clean up the whole St. Louis series. There is no reason why they should not.

Even with the worst of all the "baseball luck," the Sox ought to win the two remaining games, and trust the Athletics to dump the White Sox at least today or tomorrow. That will make the White Sox series still more eventful.

It will be possible—but far, very far, from probable—for the Red Sox to jump into first place during the series with Jimmy Callahan's "speed boys." In any event, the series will be a fair test of the relative merits of the two leading teams of the American League.

New Mexico Has No Law to Stop Bout

LAS VEGAS, May 14.—That there is no law in New Mexico to prevent prize fights was the opinion rendered yesterday by Attorney-General Frank W. Clancy. The opinion was in reply to a query by District Attorney Charles G. Ward of Las Vegas, relative to the legality of the proposed Johnson-Flynn fight.

RILEY'S COLUMN

IT is hard to lose to the Browns—in two ways. It's hard because you have to make a mess of the game to lose, and hard because if you lose it's a game thrown away. The Sox had yesterday's contest on ice and then played all kinds of baseball until, finally, they almost dropped the game. Then they took a brace and batted it out again.

* * *

IT is Redient's turn to pitch today, but the youngster saved yesterday's game and will probably not be called out so soon. Next in rotation is "Buck" O'Brien. But Charlie Hall worked only one inning yesterday and Jake Stahl may try him again today. Hall still has an unbroken record of victories, and Stahl withdraws him at the first symptom of weakness. The "Sea Lion" was dejected that way in the Detroit series and likewise in yesterday's St. Louis game.

* * *

ACCORDING to all available records, a precedent in big league run-getting was made in the second Red Sox-Browns game. Every batter on the Boston list scored a run before anybody was put out in the second inning. Nine runs straight were scored by nine successive batsmen.

* * *

JIMMY CALLAHAN still has his team going at top speed and "Big Ed" Walsh, who is bearing the brunt of the race, is not doing all of the good pitching, either. But the big fellow is Callahan's main reliance. He's so willing that I hate to ask him even to pitch in his turn," says Callahan. "Walsh ignores no more games than any three pitchers, and I honestly believe he would be willing to pitch every game this season if he thought he could win the Sox a pennant. It is men like Walsh who are so blamed willing that you hate to call on them even in an emergency."

* * *

OTTO HESS has made good again. It was not expected that the big left-hander would do anything before Summer, but he was called out when the Pilgrims were destitute of pitchers and held Brooklyn almost hitless until they smashed him for a whole flock of safe ones in the eighth and ninth innings. When he worked against the Cubs he went the full route, allowing them but one hit. Yesterday he pitched another splendid game against the Cardinals.

* * *

PAUL KRICHELL, the St. Louis catcher, is another man who is looking for Ty Cobb's scalp. The Browns declare that Cobb plays rougher baseball this year than ever before. To their list climb Cobb dived into the plate, his heels in the air and spiked Krichell in the wrist. Krichell declared that the collision was intentional and a fist fight was averted only by players on both teams. The Browns expect a battle with Cobb the next time they play the Tigers.

* * *

"IF it hadn't been for Carl Lundgren the Cubs would have Pitcher O'Brien today," says President Murphy of the Chicago Cubs. "Lundgren played for the Chicago team many years and was a most excellent pitcher, particularly on the cold days, and usually had good judgment. His judgment slipped up in the case of O'Brien, however. I had heard a lot about 'Buck's' wonderful work in the Connecticut League. In fact, many persons had written me advising his purchase by the Cubs. I picked up an Eastern paper one day and noticed where Lundgren was playing on the Hartford Club, the same that O'Brien was a member of, and decided to get Carl's opinion of the youngster.

* * *

"FIRST of all I asked George Huff, our scout, to write Lundgren and find out what he thought of O'Brien. The answer came back in due time: 'O'Brien is only a fair pitcher.' That settled O'Brien for me. If he didn't look good to Lundgren, I didn't see where he could be used by the Cubs. Yet that same O'Brien pitched amazing ball for the Denver Club of the Western League, and was grabbed up by the Boston Red Sox before we could get another crack at him. Jack Hendricks, manager of the Denver Club, and one of the best developers of young ball players in the business, according to my way of thinking, considers O'Brien the best new pitcher he has ever set eyes on."

Casey Hagerman Goes To Jersey City Team

Manager Jake Stahl of the Red Sox today disposed of Casey Hagerman to the Jersey City team of the International League. Hagerman was secured at the close of the Western League season last year from the Denver club. He reported at the end of the season, did pitch a good game against the Athletics. This Spring he went South with the team, but was slow in rounding into condition.

REPORT BURNS BADLY HURT

Crelone Burns is reported badly injured today following his bout with American last evening. Burns was thrown heavily in the second bout, landing on his neck and shoulders and appeared stunned when taken to his dressing room.

Burns lost the match in two straight falls, the first going one hour and twelve minutes and the second eleven minutes and twenty seconds. It was the best match in this city for a long time and a large gallery was present.

It was a spectacular match. American, with his superior knowledge of the mat game, had Burns on the defensive the greater part of the match, but at times the big Swede dashed and kept the Dartmore man busy squirming out of tight holds.

SCHOOL GAMES TODAY

Volkmen vs. Country Day at Allston.
Boston Latin vs. Quincy High at Quincy.
Noble & Greenough vs. Roxbury Latin (place undecided).
Stone School vs. Brookline High at Brookline.
Boston College High vs. Wellesley High at Wellesley.
South Boston High vs. Concord High at Concord.
Newton High vs. Rindge Tech. at Newtonville.
Chelsea High vs. Saugus High at Chelsea (tentative).
Milton High vs. Braintree High at Milton.
Hingham High vs. Norwell High at Norwell.
Norwood High vs. Hyde Park High at Norwood.
Framingham High vs. Westboro High at Framingham.
Windthrop High vs. Marblehead High at Winthrop.
Medfield High vs. Franklin High at Medfield.
Weymouth High vs. Rockland High at Weymouth.
Randolph High vs. Sumner High at Randolph.

The Noble & Greenough and Roxbury Latin School baseball teams are scheduled to meet in a game today, but where no one seems to know. It was hoped that either the American or National League grounds could be secured for the engagement, but neither of these will be available.

Then again it was thought that Cladia Field, Newtonville, would be a suitable spot to hold the game, but as Newton High and Rindge Technical School plays there today, that proposition is off.

Anyway, wherever the two private schools clash this afternoon Noble & Greenough is the favorite. Roxbury Latin's work on the diamond this season has not been up to its usual standard, but the Highland district boys are full of confidence and promise to give their opponents a hard battle.

Reese will take the mound for Roxbury Latin with Martin Flun doing the catching. Cunningham will oppose Reese in the box, with Edmund Brown performing on the other end.

* * *

A good game is expected to take place at the Cypress street grounds with the Brookline High and Stone Schools opposing each other. These two schools are fierce rivals, and the game is sure to be a lively affair from the start to finish.

Last year the Stone School won the annual game and hopes to repeat today. However, the private school boys will have to set a pretty fast pace in order to beat Deming, the Brookline High twirler.

Deming's work in the box this season has been nothing short of remarkable, and he looks for to make an excellent record by the end of this season.

* * *

Chelsea High is out to gain another victory in the Interurban League series this afternoon, when it clashes with Saugus High on the Carter street grounds, Chelsea.

Chelsea has already won three games in this league without meeting a setback, and hopes to win the title. Its win over Revere High gives the Chelsea boys fair headway to make good.

Saugus has a fairly good aggregation of ball players and may give the home team a surprise. However, this is hardly looked for, and Chelsea is out to make it four straight.

* * *

A fast and exciting game is sure to take place when Newton and Rindge meet at Claflin Field, Newtonville. Newton is the favorite but the Cambridge boys are sure to give them a run for the honors.

Smith will pitch for Rindge and is out to trim the Newton team. His work in the box this season stamps him as a comer. In the game against Somerville on Saturday he had the home team eating out of his hand, allowing them but three hits, two of which were of the stingiest order.

* * *

Boston Latin will make the trip to Quincy today with the hopes of taking Quincy High into camp. They will have to travel some, however, as the Quincy boys have been putting up a good article of ball.

Coach Sparr of Quincy will probably send Brown to the box for the home team. In the one game that he has pitched this season Brown showed all the earmarks of a comer, and those who have seen him perform say that he will prove a sensation before the end of the year.

* * *

Boston College High is confident of another win when it meets Wellesley today at Wellesley High School grounds. Hebert Gill will take the mound for the Boston boys and is sure to cause the home sluggers plenty of trouble.

Volkmen should not find it hard in winning from the Country Day School at Allston, while South Boston is out to revenge the defeats by Needham and Dorchester by trimming Concord High.

MIDDLEBORO HAS BASEBALL LEAGUE

MIDDLEBORO, May 14.—A new baseball league has been organized about here that will take in the fastest of the younger teams in this section. It is planned to start the first game Memorial Day and there will be a cup offered for the championship of the season. The local teams in the league are the Hospital Boys' Class, West End Juniors, the Precinct and the Red Sox. The other teams are the Bridgewaters, East Taunton Cubs and the Plymouth Red Sox.

BILL M'KINNON LOSES TO RAMSEY

PHILADELPHIA, May 14.—Harry Ramsey of this city beat Bill McKinnon of Boston in a decisive manner at the American Club last night. At the end of the fourth round McKinnon had a shade on his rival, Ramsey in the fifth ruined lights and left on McKinnon, who dropped to the floor through sheer exhaustion. He managed to stall through the rest of the round. McKinnon did little more than hug out the entire sixth round.

PILGRIMS MEET THE REDS TODAY

CINCINNATI, May 14.—The weary Boston Pilgrims blow into this town late last night, seeking revenge for the hard treatment they have received since leaving their home town. But they are apt to be dropped to disappointment this afternoon when they face the Reds, for the local ball tossers are going at such a rapid rate that they have the fans dizzy gazing at the height they are soaring.

The Boston players are a little disappointed over the loss of yesterday's game to the St. Louis Cardinals.

One high throw by Arthur Devlin wrecked them in the tenth inning, when they had victory in sight. The wild peg let the game go into the eleventh inning, when the Cardinals fell upon Dickson and won it, 4 to 3. It was a tough break for Hess, who had pitched masterly up to the fatal round.

Herd and Peabody In Title Round

C. Herd of Exeter and A. S. Peabody of Malden High were the winners in the semi-final round of the Harvard Interscholastic Tennis Tournament, held on Jarvis Field yesterday afternoon.

Herd had little difficulty in defeating G. C. Caner of St. Mark's, the runner-up in last year's contest. The first set went to Caner in another easy style, 6-1. The next two sets were cleaned up by the Exeter in very easy style, 6-3, 6-3.

The other match of the afternoon was won by A. S. Peabody of Malden High, who defeated J. A. Gee of Exeter, after a hard contest, 6-4, 2-6, 6-4.

The final match will be played off tomorrow afternoon. Herd is picked as the logical winner. The winner will have the right as Harvard Interscholastic champion to compete in the national interscholastic championship tournament at Newport this Summer.

ANDY MORRIS BADLY BEATEN BY STEWART

ALBANY, May 14.—Andy Morris of Boston received one of the worst beatings of his career here last night at the hands of Tom Kennedy, the New York hope. Kennedy, agile and shifty as a Jumbo-weight, carried every one of the ten rounds, and but for pulling his punches in the eighth, ninth and tenth, was evident to the ringside gods that Morris could have been put to sleep.

Morris was on the verge of a knockout in the eighth round, when Kennedy landed a right uppercut that sent his jaw. Morris began to sag at the knees when the bell rang. In the ninth and tenth rounds Kennedy played a stiff jab and held his right hand.

BURNS FIRST TO TACKLE THE NEW CHAMPION

KILBANE'S TITLE AT STAKE

By JACK CONWAY.

JOHNNY KILBANE, the 9 to 5 favorite, weighed in at 122 pounds and he seemed as fit as he ought for it. All that he has to do tonight for the title from Abe Attell, on February 22. He boxed 12 fast rounds with Frankie Burns [illegible] last night at Madison Square Garden, New York.

Kilbane has been a fighting champion for a long time, and he proved to the satisfaction of the fans that he is entitled to the honor. He showed that he could box and fight, and he showed that he could take punishment. He was knocked down in the first round, but he got up and fought on. He was knocked down again in the second round, but he got up and fought on. He was knocked down again in the third round, but he got up and fought on. He was knocked down again in the fourth round, but he got up and fought on. He was knocked down again in the fifth round, but he got up and fought on. He was knocked down again in the sixth round, but he got up and fought on. He was knocked down again in the seventh round, but he got up and fought on. He was knocked down again in the eighth round, but he got up and fought on. He was knocked down again in the ninth round, but he got up and fought on. He was knocked down again in the tenth round, but he got up and fought on. He was knocked down again in the eleventh round, but he got up and fought on. He was knocked down again in the twelfth round, but he got up and fought on.

Kilbane is one of the most popular champions that we have had in many years. He is quiet, modest, and unassuming. He does not drink, smoke, or swear. He is a family man, and he is devoted to his wife and children. He is a member of the Knights of Columbus, and he is a regular attendant at church. He is a man of his word, and he is as good as his bond.

Burns is a fighting champion, but he is not a popular one. He is a man of few words, and he is not a man of many friends. He is a man of few words, and he is not a man of many friends. He is a man of few words, and he is not a man of many friends.

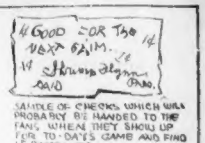
A HOME MADE MARBLE CENTERED TAPE BALL WHICH HAS DONE DUTY FOR TWO SEASONS, AS A PRACTICE PELLET, THIS IS THE ONLY BALL OUTSIDE OF THE ONE LOST AND THE ONE TO BE USED IN TO-DAYS STARFISH GIANTS-OLEANDER GAME THAT THE LEAGUE OWNS. IT WOULD BE USED IN TO-DAYS HINKY DINK WHANGDINGER CONTEST BUT FOR THE FACT THAT RULE 50 AND SO IN THE BOOK STATES POSITIVELY THAT NOTHING BUT A REGULATION DOLLAR AND A QUARTER BALL WEIGHING 5 OUNCES AND MEASURING NINE INCHES IN CIRCUMFERENCE MAY BE USED IN AN OFFICIAL LEAGUE GAME.



SADDLE OF CHECKS, WHICH WILL PROBABLY BE HANDED TO THE FANS, WHEN THEY SHOW UP FOR TO-DAY'S GAME AND FIND IT POSTPONED.

WASTE PAPER BASKET INTO WHICH WE THREW OUR REGULAR DRAWING FOR TO-DAY'S EXTRA AS SOON AS WE RECEIVED NEWS OF THE BIG CALAMITY WHICH BEFELL OUR LEAGUE.

Note: ORDINARILY OUR WASTE BASKET DOES NOT WEAR A RIBBON. WE JUST DRESSED IT UP FOR THIS OCCASION.

BUCKSHOT INSTEAD OF CAVIAR IN THIS SANDWICH I BROKE A TOOTH. SOON AS I ESCAPE THIS RUSSIAN PRISON, I'LL HURRY TO A DENTIST THIS IS ALL DESMOND'S WORK. HE HAS MY ROSAMOND IN HIS POWER
THAT BUCKSHOT CAVIAR SANDWICH WILL COMPEL YOUR LOVER CLAUDE TO VISIT THIS DENTAL PARLOR IF HE ESCAPES PRISON. THEN I'LL TORTURE HIM ROSAMOND
DESMOND YOU CAN'T UNHAND ME
MY CHANCE TO ESCAPE THIS PRISON I AM SAFE IN THIS PRISON YARD. NOW TO HIDE IN THIS SENTRY'S SHADOW I HAVE A PLAN
5 O'CLOCK!! AND ALL IS WELL OVICH. I'LL WALK TO GATE SIR!
I'LL ROLL ALONG IN THIS SENTRY'S SHADOW AS HE WALKS TO THE GATE THEN I'LL ROLL OUT AND ESCAPE AND THEN REVENGE!
HE HAS TURNED AND IS GOING BACK NOW TO GET PAST THE GATE AND A DASH FOR THE NEAREST DENTIST
CLAUDE DOES NOT SUSPECT ME IN MY DISGUISE
QUICK! DOCTOR FIX MY TOOTH
HORROR, I MUST STAY HERE AND LISTEN TO MY FOOL CLAUDE'S ROARS

I.—THE BROKEN TOOTH.

Observe, in the first picture above, what looks like a caviar sandwich. You may remember, however, that the sandwich was made of shot prepared by Desmond, Claude's enemy, so that when our hungry hero took a bite he chipped one of his best teeth. Claude now has a double reason for desiring to escape—fear of the police and desire of a dentist.

II.—IN THE DENTIST'S ROOM.

Desmond, whose heartless scheme resulted in the damage to one of Claude's teeth, is shrewd enough to guess that if our hero succeeds in breaking out of the prison he will rush to the nearest dentist's. So Desmond hurries there first and takes possession of the place to await the coming of the man he hates. Rosamond is forced to accompany the villain.

III.—THE SHUT-EYE SENTRY.

In the meantime, Claude has gained access to the prison yard and has so far escaped the notice of the sentry who is always on guard there. However, in the bright sunlight there seems to be little chance of eluding the watchers much longer, and our hero is as far from freedom as when cooped up in the dismal cell into which he was thrust.

IV.—IN THE SHADOW.

As the sentry begins his walk to the gate Claude gets a great idea. Lying on the ground, he rolls along at the same rate as the sentry's march, and thus keeps hidden from whatever other eyes might be searching the prison yard. It is a risky plan, but our hero must at all cost have his precious tooth attended to before it breaks off.

V.—THE ESCAPE.

As the sentry turns to retrace his steps Claude quickly rolls through the gates and is free! Free as the bounding deep or the bounding gazelle, or any other bounder. Free as air, free as a mosquito is free from scruples. It is a glorious feeling, especially when one wants to have a tooth fixed.

VI.—THE FAKE DENTIST.

"I'm the boyski!" cries Desperate Desmond, "and I'll take Claudeski yowit!" The scoundrel, posing as a dentist, has the unsuspecting hero in the chair before him, quite at his mercy. Rosamond, bound and gagged, cannot aid her lover, no matter how he is tortured. Full details will be given in tomorrow's pictures.

TOKORAMO CANNOT BEAR TO SEE THE BOY SACRIFICED FOR HIS SAKE

Joshakawa was turning his attention to other matters when Tokoramo sprang up with a cry of agony. "My friends! My friends!" he cried, "I will breakdown!"

By J. W. M'CONAUGHY.

Copyright, 1912, by American Journal-Examiner.

YAMOSHI'S face fell and he drew away, but the other younger men crowded more closely in about the chief and each tried at the same time to advance arguments as to why he himself should be especially chosen.

Suddenly Hironari burst through and his high, boyish voice rose eagerly above the others.

"Uncle! uncle!" he cried. Joshakawa turned to him. "What is it?

"All of you have missions!" exclaimed the boy, his eyes shining with excitement. "I alone am here without any work to do. I have no mission—no career! Here—I am ashamed among you all. Give me this mission! Let me serve my country now—I will never have a more glorious chance. It will be an honor to take Tokoramo's place—for Japan!"

Tokoramo broke out in an anguished protest.

"No! No! This boy!"

"Lives for but one purpose" interrupted Hironari, proudly. "To help you—to serve Nippon!"

Instantly the heads were bowed, and the deep chant of "Nippon! Nippon" ran through the room.

"My friends, this boy is right," declared Joshakawa, laying his hand on the youth's shoulder. "I appoint Hironari! Heaven be with you, my son!" he added fervently.

The others looked disappointed for the moment; and then they threw themselves upon Hironari with hand-shakes, slaps and smiles of congratulation as if he had just been appointed Prime Minister.

Hironari shook their hands, bowing and smiling proudly, and then addressed himself to Joshakawa.

"I thank you, my father," he said. "Now tell me what I must do."

Yamoshi!" called Joshakawa, and as the young lawyer stepped out he indicated Hironari. Yamoshi took the young man's arm.

"You will give yourself up to the police," he said, rapidly drawing him to one side into a group of the younger men. "You know very little German and no name here to call on Tokoramo. You found him out. That is all arranged. He was at the Waldorf-Pension with his wife, a woman was here waiting to see him. You got into a conversation with her, she is of a very passionate, hot-tempered nature and when she teased you about your German enunciation you grew angry at her. He then went on to sketch in the details of a revolting crime. The young man heard him without a word. He might have been listening to instructions in a part he was to play in a drama.

He listened attentively, repeated certain details to be sure that the understood properly and asked many intelligent questions. Yamoshi now and then slapped him approvingly on the back and told him that no dull German lawyer would ever break his story down.

In the meantime Joshakawa took a few valuable moments to make an attempt to win Miss Tokoramo. He bent over the limp figure in the arm-chair and pressed his shoulder.

"My dear son," he said kindly. "Now you can continue your work in peace. All will go smoothly. If it will relieve it has opened as it did. She can never be a distracting element again. Instead of being cast down you should rejoice that now you can go on with your work with a clean and single heart."

"Heidee," echoed Tokoramo bitterly.

"Yes, there is now no obstacle in your path."

Tokoramo laid a hand on his friend's arm and turned up to him a face distorted with anguish.

"You do not understand my father," he said simply. "I love her!"

JOSHAKAWA drew a long, deep breath and leaned down at his friend with a curious gleam in his eyes. But he drew away without another word, in the meantime, Omaji had called up the police station on the telephone and had informed the authorities that a murder had been committed and that he and all concerned would await the arrival of the police.

The leader turned to Kobohashi.

"Is everything arranged so far?" he asked.

"Yes," replied the lieutenant. "But there is this girl—the friend of the dead woman—she came to Tokoramo's house today with this Kerner woman. Her line must be sealed at once. I do not know how much she knows, but whatever it is it is too much."

"That shall be your work, my friend," said Joshakawa. "Remember her life must be sealed."

"At any cost," agreed Kobohashi, looking into the old man's eyes with a steady gaze. Joshakawa met it with a look as steady.

"At any cost," he echoed gravely. "They looked at each other for a few moments in silence. Then:

"You know where to find her—now—at once?" inquired Joshakawa. The other nodded as he slipped on his gloves.

"At the Varieties." The next moment he was gone. Joshakawa dismissed all the men from his mind. He knew that Omaji's friend would never appear at the police. That was all. By evening he felt this would be prevented he did not care to know. He addressed himself to Tokoramo.

"Was there anyone else in the house when this occurred?" he asked.

Tokoramo shook his head listlessly.

"Only my servant," he said.

"Did he hear anything?"

"I don't know."

"That must be attended to at once," declared the old man, with energy. And he stepped over and jerked the bell-pull.

"Neither about the room, my friends," he commanded in a low tone. "Do not appear to be holding a council. We are just continuing our observance of the Feast of the Little Children."

When Johann entered no one, much less a dull German peasant, would have guessed that these men were conspiring to cheat the justice of a murderer.

"Did you ring, sir?" asked Johann of his master, who barely raised his head.

Getting Rid of Johann

"Come here, Johann," commanded Joshakawa in his most fatherly manner. The servant approached.

"Were you here all evening, Johann?" inquired the old man.

"Yes, sir."

"No one inquired for any of us?"

"No, sir."

"Ah!" remarked Joshakawa. Then after a pause:

"Yes, sir," replied the servant, beginning to wonder what it all meant.

"I know how to serve a Japanese gentleman?"

"Yes, sir. I can make tea—and everything."

"How much is your pay here?"

"Fifty marks."

"Ah—fifty marks. Listen: One of our friends, Herr Miyake here"—the young man stepped forward—"is looking for a good servant, one who would go to Japan with him. He will pay 150 marks a month. Would you like to go?"

"One hundred and fifty marks!" exclaimed the astonished Johann. This was fabulous pay for a servant.

"Yes," said Joshakawa kindly. "He realizes that it would necessarily mean something to you to leave your native land, and he is willing to pay accordingly. Would you like to go?"

"Why, you, sir! Yes, sir!" exclaimed Johann, eagerly. Then he paused embarrassed and glanced at Tokoramo: "But my master—"

Tokoramo waved his hand and managed to say in a matter-of-fact tone: "I would not stand in the way of your advancement, Johann. You may go with Miyake with my best wishes."

"Well," said Joshakawa as the servant still hesitated, "do you agree?"

Johann came out of his sudden vision of affluence long enough to say eagerly: "Yes, sir! Thank you, sir! When do I start?"

"At once!" said Miyake, promptly. "I must leave early in the morning."

Johann's face fell and he scratched his head in some perplexity.

"At once?" he repeated, doubtfully. "But—" said Miyake. "What is the trouble?"

"Oh, sir, you see, I——" he stopped again and blushed.

"What is the trouble, Johann?" demanded Joshakawa, impatiently. Johann shifted uneasily and smiled a sheepish smile.

"Well, you see, sir, there is a chambermaid——" he began timidly.

"Oh!" exclaimed Miyake. "You wish to marry her?"

"Yes, sir," replied Johann, gratefully. "Bring her with you and you can be married on the way or after, we reach Japan. She can serve my wife."

"Oh, may I?" cried Johann, radiantly. "Thank you! Thank you, sir!"

Miyake hostily brushed aside his thanks and put on his hat.

"Now come!" he commanded. "We have very little time, and you must help me pack my things. You can return later to say goodbye to your master."

With a last semi-apologetic glance at Tokoramo Johann followed his new master out of the room. Within five minutes they were clear of the house. It was many years before Johann saw it again.

Joshakawa was turning his attention to the matter in hand. Tokoramo suddenly sprang up with a cry of agony.

"My friends! My friends!" he cried, pressing his hands to his head. "I—I—have been—good—I—can will break down! If they question me I will tell them! I cannot! I cannot!"

Joshakawa gripped his arm and shook it with savage strength.

A Verbal Whip

"Where is your manhood?" he demanded sternly. "What of your vow to your people?"

As if the words had been a whip Tokoramo threw back his head like a spirited horse. His figure straightened, his look of anguish vanished as if by magic and the light of pain in his eyes died out.

"I thank you, my father," he said gravely but steadily, and turned to listen to Joshakawa, who was giving his final instructions to their companions.

SEND IN YOUR CRAZY THOUGHT

All New England is suffering from Crazy Thought insanity and if it keeps up much longer there will be a great job for the literary alienists.

The Crazy Thought Editor never imagined that there were so many people in this section of the country who could produce a bunch of Crazy Thoughts on the slightest pretext.

But after all, there's method in their madness, as the poet aptly remarked. And this is why:

There are 201 prizes in store for the Crazy Thought producers, topped off with a shining pile of gold that totals just $50. Most any one would go crazy for a few moments—just long enough to write a first class Crazy Thought—for $50 in gold.

The next fifty best Crazy Thoughts get $1 each. That's $100 in cash for weekly prizes.

Then the next best 150 Crazy Thoughts each get one of Tad's "Silk Hat Harry" books. That makes a total of 201 prizes.

Here are some crazy thoughts culled from the latest mailsack the postman brought:

And another word of instruction. Mail your Crazy Thoughts to the AMERICAN Crazy Thoughts Editor, No. 5 Winthrop square, Boston. Write on one side only, limited in the AMERICAN, or on postcards, and get them in early.

The winners of the Crazy Thought prizes will be announced every week in the Sunday AMERICAN. Better leave your order now, so as to be sure of a copy.

M'HARG PREDICTS ROOSEVELT VICTORY

CHICAGO, May 14.—That Theodore Roosevelt will be nominated on the first ballot at the Republican National Convention was the prediction made today by Ormsby McHarg, who is in Chicago to take charge of the contesting Roosevelt cases for the colonel before the National Republican Committee. McHarg had charge of the contests four years ago. He has just made a trip through the South, in which contests will be filed, and has collected a mass of evidence to put before the committee.

ANOTHER CRAFT TO HUNT WRECK BODIES

The White Star line has chartered the steamer Algerine to work with the Canadian government steamer Montmagny, which landed three bodies at Louisburg yesterday and sailed to renew the search for bodies of other Titanic victims. The Algerine sails from St. John's, N. F., tonight, with orders to continue the search as long as there is the slightest possibility of finding a body. The bodies landed by the Montmagny are expected here tomorrow.

RISKS HIS $500 TO ATTACK AUNT'S WILL

Although $500 was left to him on condition he should not make a contest, John T. Gilfoile, formerly a member of the Boston fire department, today in the Suffolk County Probate Court began suit to break the will of his aunt, Mrs. Ellen T. Gilfoile, who left an estate valued at $14,000. Gilfoile claims undue influence. Henry F. Doherty, a nephew, was the principal beneficiary.

FINDS SKELETON OF BIG INDIAN

ONSET, May 14.—Dr. E. W. Egan, while digging for water pipes in Plymouth Park, one of the Summer colonies here, discovered a skeleton of a large Indian, intact. The bones were large and showed the man to be of the Brant size. It is stated that the skeleton has been buried at least 150 years. The bones were unmolested, and a large number of people have visited the grave of the aboriginal inhabitant about these shores.

INJURED TRYING TO STOP RUNAWAY

James V. Regan, thirty-two years old and single, was badly injured today in an attempt to stop a runaway at the corner of Heath and Bromley streets, Roxbury. The wagon was loaded with brewery grain. The horses knocked Regan down and he was kicked and trampled. He is at the City Hospital on the dangerous list. He lives at No. 31 Roxbury street.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS

STATE STREET, May 14.—Midday—The Boston market opened sluggish and with prices irregular. During the first hour, however, copper, Mayflower receded a point and Old Colony sold ⅝ lower. Calumet & Arizona was also a point lower.

The losses to make gains, and all were fractioned, were North Butte, East Butte and Copper Range.

At the opening in New York, Canadian Pacific established a new high record, gaining 1½ and going to 201. Another feature of early trading was the strength shown by the hard coal railroads. On Wall Street the impression prevails that labor troubles in the anthracite regions will be settled soon.

Lehigh Valley opened 1¼ higher at 178⅝. There was a brisk demand for Reading, which was up ⅜ at 176⅛. Substantial advances were made in many issues at the outset and a strong tone was in evidence. Strength in American Sugar Refining, which developed yesterday, was continued, despite the fact that the government is taking evidence against the company in a dissolution suit filed under the Sherman anti-trust act. American Sugar Refining was up 1¼ at the outset, with no abatement of the demand in sight. Steel common rose ⅛. Amalgamated Copper was up ⅝. Smelting gained ¼. At the end of fifteen minutes selling developed which carried off considerable of the initial gain.

The Curb was irregular.

Americans in London ruled firm above New York parity. Canadian Pacific there was active and strong.

The London copper market opened firm, with spot and futures 1s. 3d. higher.

What Do You Think About the Recall of Judges Now?

You Have Seen Something of the Record of One Judge Named Archbald. Don't You Think It Would Be a Pretty Good Thing for the People to Have Power to Recall Such Judges, Without Waiting for Them to Prove Themselves Rascals of the Lowest Kind?

Copyright, 1912, by American-Journal-Examiner

This newspaper supports the idea that if the public is sufficiently intelligent to HIRE judges IT IS ALSO SUFFICIENTLY INTELLIGENT TO DISCHARGE THEM.

This idea is opposed energetically—BY LAWYERS.

All the lawyers of all the cities hate the idea.

And Mr. Taft, who is a lawyer or a judge when he doesn't happen to be a President, also hates the idea.

That is natural enough. All the dog catchers would object to the idea that dog catchers could be put out of office.

And all the rat catchers would say that only rat catchers were capable of judging any question involving rat catching.

Every man thinks that he is at the top in his own business, and that others are unfit to judge him.

But isn't it the fact that the people ought to be at the top in ALL things.

And in connection with this recall of the judges, have you noticed the case of Judge Archbald, the gentleman who is just going to be kicked off the bench because he has gone a little bit TOO far?

This Judge Archbald, who is now sitting in the Court of Commeroe, is found to have done various obliging things for a certain railroad, while his partner was buying, for a very small part of its value, the culm bank belonging to that railroad.

"Sell me your culm bank for nothing, and I'll give you judicial decisions at the same price."

That one particular little deal would have been worth about forty thousand dollars to this Judge—and, of course, in going into that deal he proved himself a criminal.

He did it in a bald, stupid, dull way, THAT IS WHY HE IS CAUGHT.

How many other judges have been doing things of the same kind we don't know. BUT THEY—OR MOST OF THEM—WON'T BE CAUGHT.

It need not have been necessary to wait for this disgraceful revelation in regard to the railroad deal to let the people know what kind of a man Archbald was or to put Archbald out of office.

He has been revealing himself in his court decisions.

This Archbald is the man who dismissed, without punishment, a million dollar smuggler and sent a small, poor smuggler to jail. He was brought to New York especially to do that dirty job, and others like it.

This is the Judge Archbald who let off with very small and laughable fines the big offenders in the Wire Trust. THEY were rich, and—as his railroad deals shows—he needed money.

This is the Judge who was denounced by Attorney-General Wickersham for failing to send to jail a criminal, whom he fined "less than one-third of the year's profit from his dishonest and criminal practice."

Year after year this Archbald was proving to the people that he was unfit for his office. He was sending poor men to jail and freeing rich men.

YET THE PEOPLE COULD DO NOTHING TO HIM. THEY COULDN'T GET RID OF HIM BECAUSE THEY HADN'T "THE RECALL." At last, the man exposes himself TOO outrageously. He enters into a perfectly shameless open and plain scheme to make the railroads give him a certain number of thousands of dollars while he is giving them the judgments that they want.

And this is revealed largely by accident. And so this particularly dishonest Judge is to be kicked out of his place and somebody else put in.

But SHOULD IT BE NECESSARY TO WAIT UNTIL A JUDGE ABSOLUTELY PROVES HIMSELF A THIEF AND A RASCAL? Shouldn't it be possible for the people when they see a judge rendering decisions such as those that Archbald has rendered to put that man off the bench and say, "We are done with you?"

When you see, as the people of New York have seen, a certain Federal Judge acting for years as the agent of the Street Car Trust that put him on the bench, don't you think the people ought to have the power to remove that man from the bench that he disgraces?

Without the recall he will stay there and die there, probably. For he is more cunning than Judge Archbald.

When you see shameless decisions rendered against poor men at the request of rich men, and when the people decide that such a decision is corrupt and shameful, should not the people be allowed to get rid of the judge that renders it?

This wasn't a country established to secure general acquiescence in the holiness and superiority of judges, but a country established to secure the power and rule of the people.

The recall of judges, the recall of every public official that the people may name, is the programme that alone will give the people the power to which they are entitled.

And the recall of judges is coming, and will be here soon.

Judge Archbald, the judicial rascal, will help the good work along.

Even a dishonest judge may be useful—as fertilizer of an idea.

The Luxury of Complaint

By DOROTHY DIX

A VERY common figure in life is the woman who goes about bemoaning how badly her husband treats her and neglects her, yet who continues to live with him.

All of us have some friend that we dread to see enter our door because we know she will spend a couple of hours weeping on our necks while she describes to us her husband's brutality, and when worn out with her lamentations, we suggest divorce, she exclaims with horror, "Oh, I couldn't leave John. I love him so."

Recently in writing about such women I expressed the opinion that there are but two courses open to a wife in dealing with a husband who neglects and abuses her. One is to pack her trunk and leave him. And the other is, if she stays with him, to cover her bruises from the gaze of the world and bear her troubles in silence.

A correspondent writes me a very interesting letter in which she takes issue with my views on the subject. She points out, truly and sadly enough, that the majority of women know of no way of making a living for themselves, and that no matter how their husbands treat them they must endure it for the sake of their meal tickets.

Also that many other women put up with a perfect martyrdom of domestic misery because it is best for their children to have a home unshadowed by divorce.

Self Pity Demoralizes Character as Badly as Drink

My correspondent thinks that these unhappy ladies have at least the right to complain of their lots, and that it is a very selfish thing for other people not to be willing to listen to their tales of woe and deluge them with sympathy.

Perhaps my correspondent is right. Perhaps the woman who is unlucky enough to be married to a man who takes advantage of her helplessness and dependence upon him to swear at her, and abuse her as he would not a dog, is entitled to any compensation that she can get out of the pleasure of telling her troubles.

Certainly there is no more soul-satisfying joy on earth than indulging in the luxury of self pity, but it is just as weakening and demoralizing to the character as indulging in the drink or dope habit.

Undoubtedly the woman who is married to a man who treats her badly is very unfortunate, but does she help the matter any by going around among her acquaintances proclaiming the fact?

Does it take the smart and ache out of a wound to strip off the coverings under which it is hidden, and display it to the eyes of the world?

Does it do any good to talk over your troubles with others? On the contrary, does it not magnify them? All of us are unconscious sensationalists.

In Telling Our Troubles We Always Magnify Them Greatly

We just naturally strive for dramatic effects, and it is not humanly possible for any woman to sing the Triad of her woes into a sympathetic ear without piling on the agony and making herself a more and more persecuted saint and martyr as the story progresses.

John's carelessness becomes studied neglect in the telling. His irritability a deadly insult. His glass of beer habitual drunkenness.

His accidental meeting with some old woman friend at a restaurant is transformed into a dark suspicion of the double life, and as the compounding wife's tongue wags along, stimulated by exclamations of pity from her listener, she makes the situation, however bad, a thousand times worse.

Speech somehow formulates our emotions. Put into words a vague feeling and it becomes concrete, and the woman who complains of her domestic infelicity will find that it grows harder and harder to bear every time she talks it over with her friends.

She will also find when she discusses her husband's fault with others that they loom bigger and blacker, and that every time she sums up her charges against him and goes over the list of his crimes against her she hates him with a deadlier hatred.

It does not make things easier to talk them over. It makes them more difficult to endure because it visualizes every nail in the cross that has been laid upon us.

To complain of our misfortunes is to keep our minds fixed upon them. It is like the continued pressing on a boil.

A woman who opens her closet door and invites the world to look at her skeleton deprives herself of one of the mainstays of life, and that is proper pride.

She has humiliated herself and made herself an object of pity to her friends, and she finds it infinitely harder to go on with her daily life than she would if they did not know how matters stood between her and her husband.

To know that other women "poor Sally or Lucy" you behind your back is a high price to pay for the pleasure of complaining.

Also the woman who bedews our carpets with her tears as she tells of the indignities her husband puts upon her shows herself in an attitude for which we cannot help feeling a contempt, no matter how sorry we are for her.

We respect the woman who has the courage and dignity to refuse to live with a man who mistreats her, but we cannot possibly respect the wife who permits herself to be kicked around like a door mat and who takes her revenge by going about whining and snivveling to other people about her misfortunes.

Either Leave Your Husband or Bear His Abuses in Silence

It is a terrible and a tragic thing that so many women are forced by circumstances to endure brutal treatment from their husbands, but they bear it best who bear it in silence.

Complaining does not help. Sympathy does not alleviate. If there is any consolation in such a situation it comes from the knowledge that one has been a game loser, and has kept a smile on her face no matter how her heart ached.

The Things Which Lend Charm to Life

—AND—

How They Widen Our Power of Enjoyment

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1912, by American-Journal-Examiner.

IF I had my life to live over again, I would have made a rule to read some poetry and listen to some music at least once a week; for perhaps the parts of my brain now atrophied would thus have been kept active through use. The loss of these tastes is a loss of happiness, and may possibly be injurious to the intellect, and more probably to the moral character, by enfeebling the emotional part of our nature.—Darwin in his Autobiography.

THESE words are worthy of deep respect and careful consideration.

Every man and woman who is not obliged to spend all of the daylight hours in hard toil for the necessities of life ought to use some portion of each day in acquiring the things which lend life grace and charm.

There was a woman who attained a high position in the intellectual world.

She had studied largely and widely; and she was known as an eminent instructor of the young, from one end of her native land to the other. She had been reared by parents who believed in education, but who thought music was a frivolity and dancing an invention of the devil. In her maturity this woman once said to a friend, as they sat watching the dancers at a college commencement ball:

"I always feel that I have been cheated and wronged when I see young people dancing.

"My parents meant well, but they deprived me of a great accomplishment, of a great and innocent pleasure. And I am conscious of lacking grace and ease in public, through never having had instruction in dancing."

Music, Dancing, Poetry and Drama as Aids to Happiness

Music, dancing, poetry the theatre, all are aids to happiness; to the prolongation of youth; to the beauty and charm of life.

Give your children the opportunity to understand and love all these things.

Take them up yourself, now in full maturity or middle life, if you can manage to steal the time from imperative duties.

Many idle women are bemoaning the fleeting charms of lost youth who might be making themselves ten-fold more attractive and entertaining than they were in their youth, did they apply themselves to the study of music, of dancing, of poetry.

Even one hour a day given to reading or practice, will accomplish miracles at the end of a year's time.

And the character is strengthened and bettered by the concentration applied to some one purpose regularly.

The child who is not given the rudiments of music and dancing, and who is not taught to care for poetry, is being robbed, even as the great scientist Darwin and the woman of intellect felt they were robbed of something which meant happiness.

It Is a Simple Matter to Teach a Child to Love Poetry

A brilliant actress, who was famous for learning her roles quickly and without effort, said that her mother began with her at the age of four to teach her two lines of verse daily.

At that early period the mind of a child is like a film of a camera exposed to the view, and takes its impressions instantly.

Each day the two lines of verse were added, until at the age of ten the little lady could repeat whole cantos of verse and acts of drama. Her education was furthered, her memory strengthened and taste cultivated by this method.

One of America's great scientific men began the musical education of his baby girl when she was a day old.

He had certain musical chords struck in the room where she was lying every day, so that her ear should become accustomed to harmony.

And as she progressed sweet airs were played gently in the room.

Life was never meant for mere hard work, for mere stern duty, nor only for the commonplace necessary toil which keeps the world going. A skilled chef garnishes his meats with sprays of green, and the flowers of the arts should garnish the dish of everyday life.

Emerson, our great philosopher and scholar, lost the powers of his mind before he reached three score years.

Had he given a portion of every day, or even a few hours weekly to something which took his mind away from the serious things of life, had he cultivated art, or an accomplishment, or allowed himself to become frivolous as a distraction, there is no doubt he might have retained his usefulness much longer.

In Pompeii there are deep ruts in one of the narrow streets, made by the passing of chariots centuries ago.

The passage was not wide enough to allow the chariot wheels any margin, and they hollowed out the deep ruts by continually passing over the same places.

So do thoughts on one subject, without any variation, wear ruts in the brain.

There Is Always Time to Gain the Ornamental Graces of Mind

This is an age of specialists.

But while one may specialize on the principal object of his life, there remains enough time for him to gain ornamental graces of mind, if he understands their importance and uses his hours wisely.

Music, art, poetry, dancing, physical culture, fashion and a bit of frivolity now and then (clean and moral frivolity) should be respected by the wisest philosopher, the most profound student and the greatest of geniuses. And they should be called in at times to sweeten life, prolong usefulness and enlarge the scope of human enjoyment.

DEFENDS BRITISH SAILORS

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

In an editorial upon the Titanic wreck you assert that British seamen are reckless and German seamen are sane and level-headed; not reckless destroyers of human life, not cowards in time of disaster. Now let us hear something about the General Slocum, that went down in New York Harbor; about the brave men passing around land life suits.

Better men than British seamen are scarce. I never knew of any, and I sailed the seas for twenty-eight years. I'm an old sea dog and I can't see you throw them down like that.

I am a reader of the Boston AMERICAN and I hope to see an answer in the same page soon.
